Queen Smiles, Loves Funny, Risque Show

CHARLOTTETOWN (UPI)—A bejeweled and glamorous Queen Elizabeth Tuesday night was given a taste of Canada on stage in a Royal Variety Program that was sometimes funny, often risque and always Canadian.

The cream of Charlottetown society, in long dresses, black and white tie and bemedalled uniforms, gathered in the 1,200-seat theatre of the new $6,000,000 Fathers of Confederation complex to watch Canadian artists—and to see the Queen.

Outside, an estimated 3,000 people watched the Queen go in and waited for more than two hours for her to come out again, to catch a second glimpse of the flowing evening gown and jewels of the 38-year-old monarch whose warm smile and friendly wave has belied any concern she may have for her personal safety.

★ ★ ★

Security measures remained strict, however, with guards speckling the memorial area, and each of the 1,200 guests checked off against a master list as they arrived in the red-carpeted main foyer of the new theatre.

Backstage after the show, both the Queen and Prince Philip praised the actors.

"It's the first time I've seen you so dressed up," she said to master of ceremonies Lorne Greene. The Queen told him that she watched Bonanza "with the children every Sunday."

★ ★ ★

Queen Elizabeth told Anna Russell that she knew the song that had required the audience to go oink, oink during the show, "and I can make those noises at home, but I can't do it with the press around."

The Queen and Prince Philip, sitting in the balcony above the main theatre section, appeared to enjoy the performance that ranged from the stylistic impressionistic dancing of Les Feux-Follets of Montreal to the sharp jabs of comedian Dave Broadfoot of Vancouver.

Flag Mural

Philip Chuckles at 'Compromise'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The royal visit got mixed up with the great Canadian Flag debate for one hilarious minute here Tuesday as the Queen and Prince Philip viewed Jack Shadbolt's controversial flag mural.

The incident occurred during a tour of the art gallery in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre.

The Queen and her husband, accompanied by Prime Minister Pearson, rounded a corner in a long corridor.

Suddenly they were confronted with the Vancouver artist's huge mural—a composite of hundreds of flag designs.

The Queen smiled and did not commit herself, but Prince Philip with characteristic informality, burst into a loud chuckle which reverberated up and down the hallway.

"That's compromise for you", he said with a broad grin towards the prime minister.

★ ★ ★

A chuckling Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island chimed in with "Yes, this may be the answer to all our problems."

Soon everybody in the official party was laughing.

The general hilarity was missed by a large group of photographers and newspaper men who were trailing the

Jibes at Royalty Next Best Thing

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—If the 7,500 student body at Quebec City's French-speaking Laval University cannot demonstrate publicly against the Queen's arrival here, then the second best thing they can do is make fun of her.

A parody of the Queen's visit Saturday will be staged Friday afternoon at the university's campus in suburban Ste. Foy.

A student will portray the Queen, while others will portray Prince Philip, the Fathers of Confederation and other dignitaries.

Nanaimo Murder Hearing

Gun-Bullet Link Sought

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO—Police witnesses paraded to the stand Tuesday in Nanaimo courthouse as the Crown attempted to link the bullets that killed Leslie Dixon and Diane Phipps to a rifle said to belong to Ronald Ingram.

The 35-year-old former Nanaimo resident's preliminary hearing on charges of capital murder in the 1962 slayings ended its second day before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts with 15 more witnesses for a total of 39.

★ ★ ★

Police Witnesses Parade to Stand

The hearing may end today after four more witnesses testify.

One of the police witnesses collapsed Tuesday morning but returned in the afternoon. And a Monday witness, young Jordan River logger James Hoggan, said "Yes, sir" when asked if he had "deliberately perjured himself" on one aspect of the case.

Retired RCMP officer Don Colquhoun, who was stationed in Nanaimo at the time of the murders, testified he found two empty shell cases in the car in which young Dixon's body was found.

Cpl. S. J. Kirby, ballistics expert from the RCMP crime laboratory in Regina, said these cases had positively been fired in the .22 calibre rifle entered as evidence Monday.

Ingram's adopted daughter testified Monday that Ingram bought the rifle at a 1955 auction in Kamloops.

Cpl. Kirby testified two of the three bullets taken from the heads of the murder victims could have come and probably were from the same rifle. The third was so badly damaged it was impossible to say.

CLOSE RANGE

The ballistics expert also said the bullets which killed young Dixon were fired at a range of less than half an inch. Court was told earlier he was shot in the back of the head.

Const. Dan Creally of Nanaimo said he found two rounds of .22 ammunition in a search of Ingram's North Vancouver home Aug. 7 of this year.

BAKERY FIND

Const. D. F. Haggerty, who collapsed on the stand in the morning, was assisted from the court but recovered and returned in the afternoon to complete his testimony.

Prince's Criticism May Bring Exile

ATHENS (UPI) — The pro-government newspaper Eleftheria said Tuesday Prince Peter of Greece may be exiled because of his public criticism of Queen Mother Frederika.

Official government circles neither confirmed nor denied the report.

Peter has asked for an audience with King Constantine, now honeymooning on the Island of Spetsopoula with Queen Anne-Marie, and has promised not to make any more statements before a meeting.

The newspaper said he may be asked to leave the country before he has a chance to tell the king any details of his charges that Frederika caused dissension among the royal family.

The Greek nation waited anxiously for the next disclosures in the royal storm. The story was ignored by the government-controlled radio but made headlines in Monday afternoon's and Tuesday's newspapers.

Sources said Peter's Sunday press conference—which was denounced by the government as "improper toward the Queen Mother and harmful to the nation"—was the last step in a series of moves made to iron out family differences.

Against Japan

U.S. WAS READY TO RELEASE GAS

British Feared Nazi Retaliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was ready to use poison gas against the Japanese late in the Second World War, a report attributed to the late Gen. George C. Marshall declared Tuesday.

The report said the plan was dropped chiefly because of opposition from the British who feared it might touch off a German gas attack on England.

Marshall, wartime U.S. Army chief of staff, is so quoted by David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Lilienthal says Marshall made the disclosure to him and several other atomic officials in June, 1947, when the general was secretary of state.

FORBIDDEN

Lilienthal said Marshall made "no mention of the fact that international law forbade its (poison gas) use."

The account appeared Monday in a new book, The Journals of David E. Lilienthal: The Atomic Energy Years 1945-1950 (Harper and Row).

PLANS SERIES

In the book—one of a contemplated series designed to cover 46 years of the public and private life of the oftentimes controversial government official — Lilienthal also reports that:

1. Even before the push to develop the hydrogen bomb was begun, the United States had firm prospects of developing enough A-bombs within two years that "we could blow a hole clean through the earth"—to quote words Lilienthal attributed to President Harry Truman after the AEC had

Bennett Hits Japan Trail

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett Tuesday announced he and some of his cabinet will make an industrial tour of Japan next year.

The premier, who has never visited Japan, made the announcement in accepting an invitation from Yoshihiro Inayama, leader of a 23-man economic mission which began a 25-day Canadian visit Monday.

Japan is British Columbia's second largest customer for export goods, behind the United States.

In accepting the invitation, Mr. Bennett said: "We are not in favor of trade restrictions and we want to find out how we can buy more goods from Japan."

Mr. Inayama, who heads the world's fourth largest steel industry, described Mr. Bennett as "one of the leaders in working for greater Japanese-Canadian trade."

He also supported a recent suggestion by Canadian External Affairs Minister Paul Martin for a North Pacific triangle between Canada, the U.S. and Japan. "These three nations have much in common."

Bennett to Laing: 'Keep Hands Out'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Message to Federal Resources Minister Laing from Premier Bennett: Keep your cotton-picking hands out of British Columbia's affairs.

At a press conference Tuesday, Mr. Bennett had been asked to comment on Mr. Laing's statement that provincial policy is hindering the exploration of offshore minerals.

"As long as I'm premier, companies will have to pay a fair amount for developing these resources which belong to all the people," Mr. Bennett said. "If he would keep his cotton-picking hands out of it (British Columbia) we would be very happy."

Police Charge 'Friendly' Mob

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)—A mob of 3,000 Peronist demonstrators closed around a car carrying President Charles de Gaulle of France and President Arturo Illia of Argentina Tuesday and broke up their motorcade.

Sixteen persons were wounded in the rock-and-gun battle that followed as police charged at the crowd.

The wives of the two presidents, together in another car, were in peril for a time.

AGAINST ILLIA

The 74-year-old de Gaulle, target of assassins on previous occasions in Europe, was untouched in the incident provoked by demonstrators apparently friendly to him but hostile to Illia.

Illia suffered a cut hand from broken glass of the presidential car. He said later that the incidents were the "consequence of twisted thinking."

Police, using tear gas bombs, drove an opening in the mob and the car sped on the short distance remaining to a farewell luncheon that closed de Gaulle's four-day visit to Argentina.

Tshombe Fails At Cairo

CAIRO (CP)—The Congo's Premier Moise Tshombe abandoned Tuesday night his attempt to crash the conference of non-aligned powers after being told he would not be accepted.

From a suburban palace where he had been kept under virtual house arrest through the day, Tshombe announced he would leave immediately for The Congo.

★ ★ ★

Tshombe also sent an angry letter to President Abdel Gamel Nasser complaining, "I am a prisoner of my host." He said he had been cut off from all communication with the outside world and even had difficulty getting in touch with The Congo embassy.

It was later announced that the United Arab Republic has refused to release Tshombe from house arrest so that he can go back to Leopoldville.

★ ★ ★

Tshombe was told last night that he would not be free to go home until the Egyptian and Algerian diplomats were permitted to leave The Congo and go to the neighboring former French Congo Republic.

Canada Provoked

Duties in Cyprus

Always Toughest Jobs!

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is becoming more and more annoyed that the Canadian contingent in the United Nations force in Cyprus is continuing to be handed most of the force's dirty jobs, informed sources said Tuesday.

But there is nothing official the government can do about it because the 1,130-man Canadian contingent is under UN command.

Moreover, any formal action in this regard might appear to the other contributing nations as political jockeying for a preferred position in the force, informants said.

★ ★ ★

One of the chief causes of the present problem, in Canadian eyes, is that Canadian troops have been so efficient in UN peacekeeping operations that they almost automatically draw the toughest assignments.

External Affairs Minister Martin has been dropping hints —hoping they will reach the ears of the UN command—that the various tasks of the UN force in Cyprus should be rotated among the six national contingents. The other major units come from Britain, Ireland, Denmark, Sweden and Finland.

Sources said the government believes the Canadians have had long enough the nerve-wracking job of policing the 16-mile highway from Nicosia to Kyrenia.

★ ★ ★

The situation along the highway threatens to flare up again. The 650-man Turkish army contingent in Cyprus, on the island by the 1960 independence treaty, straddles the road.

The government here is said to feel that a less onerous task for the Canadians, at least temporarily, would boost morale.

Bullet Link Hunted

He said he found an expended .22 cartridge Aug. 8 on a window ledge in the washroom of the Parklane bakery in Harewood, once owned and operated by Ingram.

STRIP OF COTTON

A bloodstained strip of cotton found wound around Miss Phipps' neck was compared with strips of material seized from the bakery by Const. Haggarty the same day.

Cpl. Tony Prokop, head of the hair and fibre section of the RCMP Regina laboratory, said the badly-stained cloth was "similar" to three of the more than 20 pieces of cloth taken from the bakery.

BUMPER DENTS

Cpl. Peter Schiml of the RCMP laboratory in Vancouver compared indentations on the bumper guard of Ingram's car and scrapings on a rock taken from Harewood Mines Road near the former home of Yvonne Barsby.

Miss Barsby said Monday she helped a man whose car became stuck on the rock on the night of the murders. She could not identify Ingram but said he "resembled" the man.

Cpl. Schiml said the marks on the gravel guard "could have been caused by the rock or another of the same shape and size."

A. R. Corrigan of the Regina laboratory said scrapings taken from the rock "could have originated from the undercoating of the car," but added he could reach no definite conclusion.

CAME CLOSE

Staff Sgt. E. G. Sarsiat, formerly of Nanaimo and now of Prince George, testified Miss Phipps had "obviously been beaten with some object (which) had come only close sometimes and torn her hair away."

Some of the hair had been beaten into the ground.

Staff Sgt. Sarsiat said there were faint, fresh tire imprints on the dirt road off the more-travelled road near where the girl's body was found. The imprints were too indistinct to get dire marks showing any particular tread.

The officer also said "there was no sign of a scuffle inside or outside" the Dixon car.

PERJURED?

Mr. Hoggan replied "Yes, sir" when asked by defence counsel Hugh McGivern: "You deliberately perjured yourself with reference to this crow shooting, didn't you?"

Mr. Hoggan had said Monday he had never seen Ingram fire a .22 rifle kept in the washroom of the bakery, where he worked for Ingram.

He said Tuesday he had not felt well the day before and had a temperature of 100 degrees, and made "a slip of the tongue" when he forgot to mention seeing Ingram fire a .22 rifle at a crow from the rear of the bakery.

FOUND RIFLE

Ken Nadon and Jim Chipman of the Nanaimo area told of finding the rifle in evidence under the ice of nearby Long Lake three months after the slayings.

Paul Phipps, younger brother of Diane, said he saw his sister and young Dixon drive onto the George Pearson Bridge about 10 p.m. Oct. 16, 1962, the night they died.

made a secret report to him on weapons prospects in 1949.

But, almost in the same breath, Truman reported to have added:

"Wouldn't it be wonderful when . . . (that time) . . . comes around, if we could take the whole business and dump it into the sea?"

2. Top American planners had actually scheduled using up to 12 atomic bombs as a prelude to a planned invasion of the Japanese mainland — even though the United States had only two in the stockpile at the time of the Hiroshima-Nagasaki bombings. And Lilienthal, in attributing this statement also to Marshall, indicated his own belief that it would have been impossible for atomic weaponeers to meet such a schedule.

FDR LIKED IDEA

3. Former president Franklin D. Roosevelt had been "friendly" to an idea broached by a Danish physicist, the late Niels Bohr, that the United States and Britain "trade" their atomic knowledge with Russia if the Soviets would agree to "open Russia and make it part . . . of an open world."

Lilienthal says the information on Roosevelt's position was given to him by Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer—one of the key developers of the A-bomb. He declares the latter also said Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill was indignant at the whole idea and wanted a careful check kept on Bohr.

"HUMANE"

(A book published in England last month reported Churchill considered having Bohr confined.)

The account of the poison-gas plan was given by Marshall, Lilienthal says, after the general had first defended use of the A-bomb against Japan as being "humane" because it shortened the war.

"And then," relates Lilienthal, "he went into a discussion of the use of poison gas. He . . . (said he) . . . had definitely favored the use of gas. . . ."

PACIFIC ISLANDS

Quoting Marshall as saying "we were all ready to use it on some of the islands of the Pacific," Lilienthal continues his summary of the general's remarks thus:

"After the terrible losses at Iwo Jima he was prepared to use gas at Okinawa; just sending in enough to force the inhabitants to move into a remote part of the island and to keep the troops in (gas) masks.

LITTLE LOSS

"If they were in masks for a week, they would be so weakened that the invasion could have been accomplished with little loss of life."

Lilienthal then quotes Marshall as saying:

"The reason it (gas) was not used was chiefly the strong opposition of Churchill and the British. They were afraid that this would be the signal for the Germans to use gas against England."

The mural, entitled simply "Flag Mural", is reported to be valued at $10,000. It is painted in bold primary colors and has a large Red Ensign in the middle of its conglomeration of flag fragments.

This is not the first time the mural has been in the news. During the prime minister's visit here for the federal-provincial premier's conference Sept. 1, it was covered up by white paper and camouflaged by a large photograph of the Fathers of Confederation. The Commons flag debate was in full swing at the time.

It was reported the mural was concealed by Memorial Centre officials to avoid embarrassing Prime Minister Pearson when he toured the building.

However, this was denied by centre spokesmen. They said it was done because the mural had not been officially presented to the gallery yet.

Low Level of Blood Sugar Could Be Caused by Tension

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any remedy for weakness from low blood sugar, other than eating. —A. M. W.

Yes, there are other remedies.

The periods at which the blood sugar level is too low can bring weakness as well as headache and a feeling of being famished.

However, several related factors usually will be present in various combinations, and it is usually fruitless to try to treat a patient effectively unless these are taken into consideration.

The patient's mode of living should be analyzed. What kind of exercise does he get, and how much? Are his meals regular, or is he the type of person who skips meals or sometimes picks at his food because he is not hungry, or is emotionally upset?

REST IMPORTANT

What does he customarily eat? If he at times skimps on protein, that can be a significant factor. Protein is released more gradually into the blood stream and hence guards against the abrupt ups and downs in the blood-sugar level.

How much does he sleep? Regularity of rest is important to him. He can't burn up large amounts of energy with impunity.

If he has emotional problems, he must resolve them, not struggle along with the tensions and nervousness. Medications (tranquilizers or mild sedatives) often are necessary to correct certain nervous manifestations.

LEARN TO RELAX

In some instances glandular deficiencies may need correction: There may be thyroid or adrenal underactivity.

Frankly, it isn't always easy to convince a nervous, high-strung patient that he really ought to try to change his mode of living, learn to relax, and to be more regular in his eating, sleeping and activity patterns. But that is often what he needs far more than medication.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any way to care for babies who have sinus trouble? Or is there such a thing in infants?—MRS. S.

Some of the sinuses (there are quite a few) are not developed at birth, although the principal ones, the maxillary sinuses, are present.

Sniffles and chronic runny nose, if a cold is not involved, more likely indicates an adenoid infection. If pus is present, antibiotics can be used.

If there is a watery discharge only, a more likely explanation is allergy. This is not uncommon in infants.

But if there are other signs that make you think of sinusitis, it is more to the point to look for some underlying cause. Examples are polyps, or bronchiectasis.

True sinus trouble is not very often seen in small children under the age of five years.

Dear Dr. Molner: My leg is bad and swells every so often. I would like to know why.—C. L.

There are many causes for such swelling. I could write for hours about it, and not help you as much as a physician could by 10 minutes of examining the leg and asking a few keen questions. The fundamental of good medicine is accurate diagnosis. See a doctor. Something is wrong, or you wouldn't have that swelling.

Queen Loves Show

It was a bilingual show, dedicated to the Queen and the two-language country that welcomed her.

It made fun of the French-English conflict in the country that has resulted in separatist threats against the Queen during her visit later this week to Quebec City.

"The press will measure me for a trench, if every second word I say isn't French," intoned Lorne Greene, a TV cowboy hero who looked as if he would be more comfortable in britches.

He invited the Queen to see Canada in "all its variety." The Pa Cartwright of Bonanza said Canadians were not as prim and sober-minded as most people thought, and comedian Broadfoot immediately proved this point by demanding:

* * *

"What are all the Mounties doing here? Hal Banks is in Brooklyn."

He kidded about British Columbia selling electricity, and suggested maybe President Johnson could "sell us our country." He told of the new Canadian flag depicting the two founding races—man and woman.

"It became pornographic so we covered it with maple leaves."

The French dancers traced the various races that formed Canada through the dance, and Indians, Eskimos and European folk dancers flicked across the stage.

Comedienne Anna Russell introduced audience participation in a form of singing which she said has "no sex" and had the richly-dressed audience oinking like pigs.

* * *

Both languages threaded through the program, with a grand climax of "O Canada" sung in French and English simultaneously by the entire cast.

The show ran a half-hour overtime, but the Queen and Prince Philip went backstage as originally planned, to meet the cast.

The audience broke impulsively into applause as the Queen rose from her balcony seat and again when she walked down the lower aisle to the rear of the stage.

* * *

"A nation that laughs at flags is not all bad," said Greene in closing the show. "May the Queen and all her hive leave humming."

"I was surprised at how relaxed the Queen was," said Broadfoot later.

Mavor Moore, director of the program, said he hoped it was the start of many such regal or vice-regal shows in Canada.

He decided on the variety program to "break with tradition and get Her Majesty to laugh on Canadian soil."

"They've been to lots of highbrow things. This was their chance to enjoy themselves."

Missing Cannon Stolen as Prank?

The missing cannon from the Maritime Museum was stolen as a prank by University of Victoria students and there is little likelihood of charges being laid, police believe.

The 300-pound cast-iron weapon disappeared from the Signal Hill museum building's front lawn some time during the weekend.

A student spokesman had earlier said the cannon theft was in keeping with prank theft traditions which decree students should steal heavy useless objects and later return them.

Student paper officials denied they had stolen the cannon and said they already had borrowed a cannon to celebrate a campus event.

Goldwater Plan:

South Viet Nam Fact-Finding For Eisenhower

★ ★ ★

By ROBERT BARKDOLL

WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater says that if elected president he will ask former president Dwight Eisenhower to "go to South Viet Nam" and report back to him on the fighting there and "the situation in Southeast Asia."

The announcement by the Republican presidential nominee recalled Eisenhower's promise during the 1952 election campaign to "go to Korea" in an attempt to end the war there.

Eisenhower's pledge was credited with contributing to his election victory margin over Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson.

EXPERTS

Goldwater said in a statement that he would ask Gen. Eisenhower to "head up a group of qualified experts to go to South Viet Nam and report back to me."

In his statement, the republican candidate said:

"I am convinced that only through a careful study by the best qualified experts this country has to offer can we reach the kind of hard conclusions that are needed to meet the situation in South Viet Nam. As this country's foremost military man and foremost statesman, Gen. Eisenhower is the man best qualified to fulfill this critical mission.

"UNFORTUNATE FACT"

"The unfortunate fact is that we are at war in South Viet Nam. American boys are fighting and dying in the Asian jungles. And it becomes more apparent every day that this administration is drifting, that it has no policy worthy of the name.

"If I am elected, I intend to come to grips with this vital question and, at that time, I want the very best and soundest advice available."

It was on Oct. 24, 1952—in the closing week of that year's election campaign between Eisenhower and Stevenson that the general speaking in Detroit, promised that if elected he would "go to Korea" to seek "an early and honorable end" to the war.

MADE TRIP

Eisenhower's backers hailed his decision as the best way to end the fighting that had been underway since June 25, 1950. He subsequently made the Korean trip. An armistice was signed on July 27, 1953 and the fighting ended 12 hours later.

Common Prayers Approved

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican ecumenical council Tuesday advanced its drive for Christian unity, voting approval for Roman Catholics to pray with other Christians.

It was a major switch in centuries-old Roman Catholic policy against joint worship with non-Catholics.

Although the emphasis was on common prayers to invoke union of Christians, the provision in a council schema on Christian unity opened the way for bishops to permit common worship under limited circumstances.

PUBLIC CONTACTS

In other votes on the unity schema, the council fathers approved organized public contacts between Catholics and other Christians to work for unity, agreed that Catholics everywhere must undergo a "conversion of heart" toward others and accepted a declaration that the Roman Catholic church must be ready to reform itself when erros occur.

The chapter on the schema was presented to the council by Bishop Charles Helmsing of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., who told the ecumenical leaders that its approval "could be a very great step forward in the renovation of the church."

Chatham Minister Had No Suspicions

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Rev. Russell D. Horsburgh testified Tuesday that he has never seen anyone having sexual relations in Park Street United Church and he had seen nothing that led him to suspect that this was going on.

The 45-year-old Chatham minister took the witness stand at the opening of the 11th day of his trial on eight counts of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

OUT OF BOUNDS

He told the court he had found young people attending Friday night dances in out-of-bounds areas in the church, or on the way to them, while patrolling with dance chaperones or by himself.

He testified that the chaperones told him youngsters were leaving the dance floor and had been found in the church parlor. However, he added, no chaperoen ever reported to him finding anyone having intimate relations or necking.

DISCUSS PROBLEM

Dealing in detail with the first count contained in the charge against him, Mr. Horsburgh said he first met the 14-year-old girl named in the charge last March 19, after receiving a telephone call from the 15-year-old boy with whom she claimed in her testimony, she had sexual relations in the church.

Mr. Horsburgh said the boy told him he and the girl had a very serious personal problem they wanted to discuss with him immediately. He invited the couple to talk with him in his office.

"I told them that marriage for them at this time was impracticable and impossible," he said.

He said they spoke of seeing nothing wrong with pre-marital intercourse, but the boy admitted that his girl friend had doubts about it and was reluctant.

'Beneficent' Thomson 'Has Enough Papers'

LONDON (CP)—The Times says it believes Lord Thomson is "a beneficent force" in the newspaper world but "even if he were the archangel Gabriel, we would also believe he has quite enough papers in the United Kingdom already." The newspaper was commenting in an editorial on the bid of the Canadian-born publisher to take over the George Outram group of Glasgow newspapers.

Columbia Dam Bids Opened by Premier

VANCOUVER (CP)—A consortium of three companies submitted a low bid of $15,899,857 for construction of the Duncan Lake Dam, first of three giant structures called for in the Columbia River treaty.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett opened five bids as president of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

It was indicated that the contract will probably be awarded to the low bidder, the consortium of Mannix Limited of Calgary, Standard - General Construction (International) Limited, also of Calgary and Emil Anderson of Vancouver.

TENDERS TO BE LET

Other bids ranged to $23,155,238, submitted by McNamara Construction (Western) Limited of Edmonton.

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, Hydro co-chairman, said tenders will be let in a week and construction should start by the end of the month on the 120-foot-high earth-filled dam, 25 miles north of Kaslo, in the Kootenays.

He also announced that the contract for the Arrow dam, number two of the three treaty dams, will be let around the first of next year and that Mica Creek dam, largest of the three, will not be let until the end of next year.

1968 DEADLINE

Duncan Lake dam must be completed by April 1, 1968.

It will create a 29-square-mile reservoir, capable of storing 1,400,000 acre-feet from a 925-square-mile drainage area.

Other bids opened by the premier were: Northern Construction Company, J. W. Stewart Limited and Perini Pacific Limited, all of the Vancouver area $18,388,233; the Foundation Company of Canada Limited of Toronto, $19,297,686; John Laing and Son, Richard Costain Civil Engineering Limited, George Wimpy Canada Limited, and Taylor Woodrow of Canada $20,339,448.

MPs Agree To Extend Farm Credit

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Commons Tuesday gave unanimous approval to an experimental farm credit bill after seven days of wrangling on its technical and legal aspects.

Accompanying Commons assent was a pledge by Agriculture Minister Harry Hays that this newest and "most radical" extension of credit to farmers would be brought before the standing committee on agriculture for review and possible revision within a year.

The bill sets up a credit fund for groups of farmers who want to jointly purchase and pool expensive farm implements. Under the legislation, farmers may borrow up to $15,000 for each member in the partnership or a maximum of $100,000 for the group.

Education Financing Query Aim

VANCOUVER (CP)—A royal commission inquiry into education financing was urged Tuesday by the British Columbia School Trustees Association.

The impact of changes in the curriculum together with the introduction of local vocational schools and regional colleges will result in greatly increased costs, delegates to the annual convention were told.

Delegates also approved motions calling for a cut in the teachers' at-school hours to six and a change in policy so that teachers from outside the province could have all their previous teaching experience recognized in their B.C. certificates.

Trustees also approved a motion urging the provincial government to include the teaching of French as part of the basic program in schools, including elementary grades.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING STIMULATES BUYING

In 20 years, this piece of property will be worth more money—or less. For a long-term risk-free investment, London Life has a suggestion.

Why buying a London Life policy is as good as buying a piece of property (perhaps better)

The value of London Life permanent insurance is not in the lap of the gods. It is guaranteed. You don't need a large down payment. You can borrow money on it. And all the while it protects your family more completely than any other investment.

YOU MAY LIFT YOUR EYEBROWS when we compare a London Life Jubilee policy with a piece of property. But consider these facts:

(1) Investment in a piece of property usually involves some risk. A London Life Jubilee policy avoids the hazards of investment risk. The cash values of your policy are guaranteed in writing.

(2) Start modestly. $13.09 a month isn't very big league in the investment world. But invested in a London Life Jubilee whole life policy it provides protection and builds substantial savings. If you start at age 25, by the time you reach age 65 you will have had $10,000 life insurance protection for your family for 40 years—and you will have built up savings of about $13,170, twice as much as you have paid in premiums. This is made up of $5,580 in guaranteed cash value, and $7,590 in accumulated dividends.

(3) The dividends above are based on London Life's current dividend rate. While they are not guaranteed, the Company has had an outstanding record of dividend growth for over 50 years. For example, since 1951 the dividend rate has been increased seven times.

(4) When you're ready to retire, what other form of property offers you all these choices: at age 65 you can keep right on with your London Life insurance protection; you may stop paying premiums and take a paid-up policy for an adjusted amount; you may take the cash value, plus dividends that have built up—take it in a lump sum, as an income guaranteed for life or as an income for so many years. No other property is so versatile.

(5) With your first premium you create an immediate estate. If you die, the value of your London Life policy is greatly increased—worth much more than you have paid in premiums. Many other properties must be sacrificed when the owner dies.

(6) You can borrow from London Life on the cash value of your policy. Quickly and quietly. Just call the local London Life office or your representative. No credit check. And all the while your policy continues to protect your family.

(7) When you borrow from London Life, the interest rate is 6%—comparable with banks' regular lending rates and much lower than personal loan companies'.

(8) A London Life Jubilee policy is a good investment in other ways. It is just as safe as high-grade bonds and much safer than most common stocks. It is particularly attractive because while it earns you money it protects your family.

(9) Property values may rise or fall. But a London Life Jubilee policy grows with dividends and guaranteed values. Dividends are declared each year. In 1964, dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies will exceed $27 million.

(10) One reason London Life premiums are low is because Canadians, on the average, are long lived. Dividends to policyowners are high because, among other things, the London Life Insurance Company invests wisely and profitably. (In 1963, the Company earned 5.54% on its investments—after investment expenses.)

(11) No two men have the same insurance needs. That's why your London Life representative has been schooled to tailor insurance to fit your needs. He is trained to give you efficient service for many years to come.

Reputation At Stake

DURING THE NEXT three weeks some 2,000 volunteer canvassers will be calling on no less than 45,473 homes throughout Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula in the annual door-to-door appeal for funds for the Community Chest.

Their hope this year is to collect $80,400, approximately one-fifth of the total amount needed to run the 24 Chest agencies which depend upon the generosity of the local citizens to operate the vital services they provide.

The full objective of the United Appeal fund drive this fall is $410,000. For a wealthy and sizable area such as Greater Victoria and its environs this is not a large sum of money, but if it is to be found it will only be through the understanding, co-operation and open-handedness of every segment of our community.

Apart from setting the goal of $80,400 for the residential canvassers, Chest officials have allocated objectives for other groups. These are: professional, $31,000; corporations, $88,800; corporation employees, $86,800; general firms and employees, $20,800; business districts, $8,400; individual advance gifts, $49,000; national firms, $2,200, and public service, $42,600.

To date indications are that each of these sections will have a good chance of attaining their goals, but it is yet too early in the campaign to say this with any assurance. Last year, for instance, the Appeal failed to reach its needed amount by $50,000.

This, it cannot be denied, was a black eye for our community at large. In a breakdown of 1963 donations on a per capita basis the average gift of the individual here was $2.54, compared with a community of like size, Halifax-Dartmouth, where the contribution per capita was $3.38. Had Victorians given on a similar basis to that city our 1963 campaign goal would have been oversubscribed by $76,000.

Residents of lower Vancouver Island have long had the reputation among mainland Canadians of being the fuddy-duddies of the nation. This we don't mind too much, choosing to look upon their view of us as one resulting from sheer jealousy.

However tolerant we may be on this count, we must now guard against being referred to as the pikers of Canada by our mainland friends. And the best way to avoid such a calamity is to give generously to the United Appeal.

Keep this in mind when the Community Chest canvasser knocks on your door between now and the end of the month.

At One Fell Swoop

THERE HAS BEEN much talk of late on Parliament Hill about reforming Commons business by new methods of procedure. Mr. Douglas Fisher, NDP member for Port Arthur and an MP never short of expression, has a new idea for running the country's affairs.

He would bar the House of Commons to anyone over 60 and limit parliamentary stay to 10 or 12 years.

This would certainly revolutionize the Commons. At one fell swoop it would make it practically unrecognizable.

To take a few prominent names which would disappear overnight on such a basis, either on account of age or length of Commons incumbency:

Mr. Pearson, were such a reform to be applicable tomorrow, would have to cease waiting on the Queen during her current visit. Mr. Diefenbaker would vanish from the Opposition benches. So would Mr. Gordon Churchill and Mr. Harkness. The government would be deprived of Mr. Paul Martin and Mr. Pickersgill. Perhaps even Mr. Hellyer, who although but 47 has spent 11 years in Parliament. Mr. Gordon, also, would have to begin packing his bags, with less than two years to run.

The NDP member would decimate his own party ranks as well. There is his leader, Mr. Douglas, now at this age limit of 60 with 11 years in the House to his credit; Mr. Cameron, beyond Mr. Fisher's age limit; Mr. Knowles, 56 but with a total of 17 years in the Commons against his name; Mr. Winch, still on the sunny side of 60 but an MP for the past 11 years.

All these and more would have to exit if Mr. Fisher had his way.

In fact if such stringent rules had been a parliamentary heritage from the beginning John A. Macdonald, Wilfrid Laurier and Mackenzie King would have been dispensed with at the height of their powers as prime ministers. Not to mention an allied figure of parliamentary renown, Sir Winston Churchill, who was 65 years of age when he began his finest hour.

Mr. Douglas Fisher, by the way, is 45 with a scant seven years as an MP. Possibly this has some effect on his thinking, and perhaps even his ambitions.

Naval Changes

CONSEQUENT on ranking changes in the defence structure Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore will leave the Esquimalt station this month to take over as flag officer of the Atlantic Coast. This is the senior of the two coastal commands and his appointment is a tribute to his qualities and record as a high naval officer.

The local area will miss him, not alone in RCN circles but in the wide community range to which he has lent a helping hand. Admiral Landymore has taken a keen and active part in the civilian affairs which buttress the naval connection here, and his co-operation and advice have been valuable to these pursuits.

This is a characteristic feature of the Pacific naval command, which enjoys splendid liaison with the community at large and of which it is of this area's warp and woof. The RCN at all levels can always be depended on when called to assist in any local venture.

Admiral Landymore will depart therefore leaving behind goodwill and best wishes for his future responsibilities. His successor, Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, another officer of distinguished service, is assured of the same respect and intimate interest as he in turn takes over the Esquimalt station.

Plutocrat

MR. H. W. HERRIDGE (Kootenay West): Before I proceed I should explain that I have been a farmer all my life, but in contrast to the many well-to-do farmers in the ranks of the Progressive Conservative party I have been associated more with the axe, the grub hoe and the walking plow throughout my life.

Mr. Diefenbaker: You are an agricultural plutocrat.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

I HAVE just been mulcted of a quarter because a group of chaps in what you might call knee breeches today will start what is termed the "World Series."

It isn't that, of course, and nowhere in the sporting world is there such a thing, the nearest to this all-embracive theme being what the World Cup of soccer which erupts on the global scene in 1966, I believe.

But nomenclature is as we have it, and to the North American continent if nowhere else the World Series means the fall baseball classic.

Now I am forced to concede, being an honest if oft misguided man, that this deprivation of my purse was not of compulsive injunction. You may say indeed that I could have kept my hand out of my pocket, even though while not mandatory it seemed to be taken for granted that I would come across, as it were—and with no hesitation. My predilection for small flutters, and you will grant me absolution, I trust, in view of the minute scale of my investment, is, I fear, not unknown among my intimates.

Anyway, a year ago I think it was, I won 50 cents in one of these minor speculative interludes, and so I have been encouraged to try again. Hope springs eternal, does it not, even if for yours truly the spring seldom assumes rampant proportions.

Now of course my quarter's worth isn't a wild leap into the dark, in spite of the fact I am not permitted to choose my own protagonists or the runs they will score. I know somewhat of these peaked-cap artists of the diamond—there is a law, apparently, against them playing bareheaded—since I read the sports pages.

And these tell me that New York's "Yankees" and St. Louis' "Cardinals", having won their separate league pennants, are due to meet in batting combat this a.m. I am of the ilk that considers a season-long record superior to any sudden-death play-offs, but this is not a good box-office maxim and so we have the World Series which has, at the moment, penetrated into my pocket.

Twenty-five cents not being too persuasive a factor in one's attachment I am constrained to confess I hope the Cardinals win. Sheerly on principle. And sympathy. It is a long time, I read, some 18 years to be precise, since they enjoyed the distinction of vying for the trophyless honor of victory involved.

Strange, is it not, that no symbol of achievement, leaving aside the monetary prizes, adorns the boardrooms of baseball.

★ ★ ★

I am further on the Cardinals side because of the fact, known across the entire North American continent, I warrant, that the Yankees have a disconcerting habit of copping the laurels in these annual encounters. Not always, but they do so too often. That is, they are of championship calibre. And, by an alchemy none too generous in its application, people in the abstract like to see champions brought down.

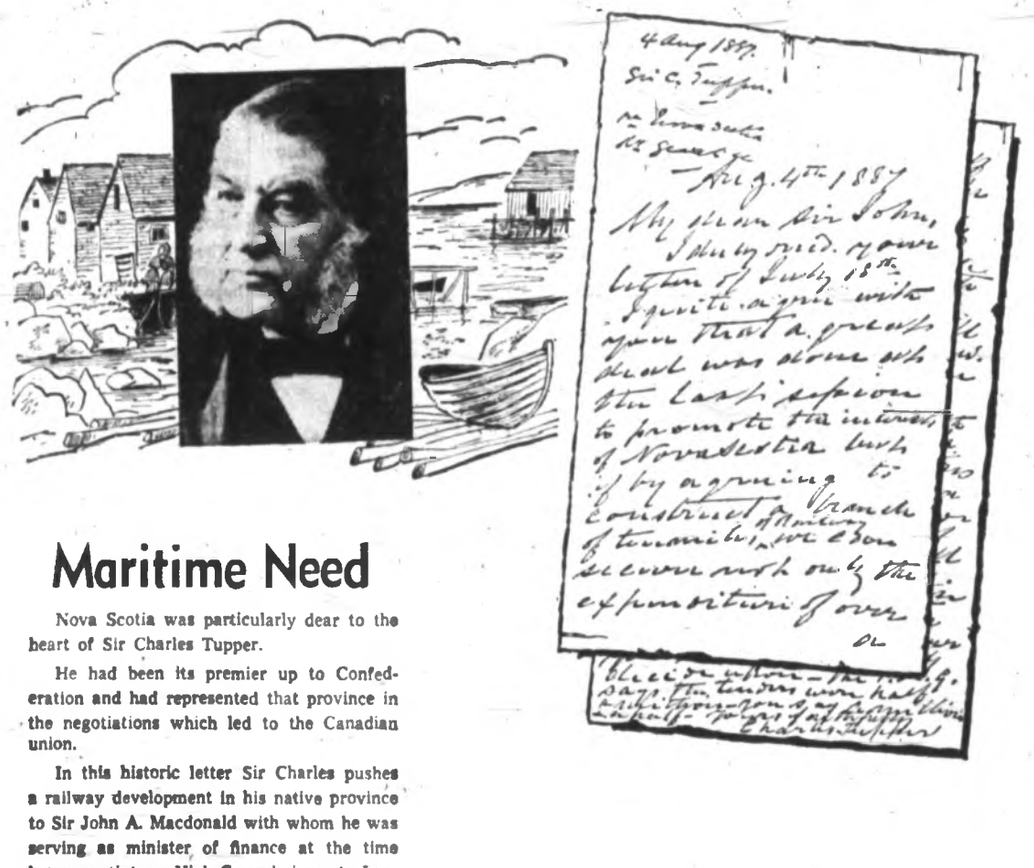

Did they not I doubt we'd ever see a change of government anywhere.

Not that the World Series is viewed much in the abstract, nor will it be in either New York or St. Louis, but neutralists presumably will be favoring the latter. There was a day in my own sporting and brief championship moments when I took a less altruistic attitude to such matters, but now I feel much more compassionate. About challengers.

Not, frankly, that I expect to be seriously affected by the result, come what may, and after all I have only a quarter hinging on the game. But still, if it coincided with a Cardinal win I could frame the coin as a memento of my investment.

It isn't good for much else these days, come to think of it.

FAMOUS LETTERS IN CANADIAN HISTORY — NO. 22

Maritime Need

Nova Scotia was particularly dear to the heart of Sir Charles Tupper.

He had been its premier up to Confederation and had represented that province in the negotiations which led to the Canadian union.

In this historic letter Sir Charles pushes a railway development in his native province to Sir John A. Macdonald with whom he was serving as minister of finance at the time between stints as High Commissioner to London.

Although he was a graduate medical doctor and the first president of the Canadian Medical Association, Sir Charles had been embroiled in politics most of his life and for a brief period in 1896 was prime minister of Canada. He was leader of the Conservative opposition in 1900 when he retired and he died later in England.

Tupper Asks Railway Link for Nova Scotia

Aug. 4th, 1887.

My dear Sir John:

I duly received your letter of July 18th. I quite agree with you that a great deal was done at the last session to promote the interests of Nova Scotia but if by agreeing to construct a branch of terminal railway we could secure not only the expenditure of over a million in the development of a great iron industry but also secure a very valuable traffic for the ICR I think it would be wise to do it . . .

Of course I am anxious to make Nova Scotia as prosperous as possible and this, especially at the time that commercial union with the U.S. is being agitated removes all cause of discontent with our present conditions . . .

I am afraid you are giving yourself no rest and still hope you will run over here if only for the voyage. We were fortunate in Digby under the circumstances and still revive so in Renfrew . . .

I still think you should advertise for a proper Atlantic service whatever you may ultimately decide upon . . .

Yours,

CHARLES TUPPER.

Powerful Factor for Unity

By ELIZABETH BARKER, from London

THE NATO alliance has now become so much part of the underlying structure of everyday life in all its member countries that its importance and value are taken for granted—without question and almost without mention. Yet often, below the surface of events—sometimes more visibly—the alliance is powerfully at work in many different ways.

One of its more visible activities — Soviet watchers were eager to get a sight of it—has recently taken place in the north Atlantic. There 140 warships, 170 aircraft, 20 merchant ships and over 30,000 officers and men have been taking part in a vast naval exercise designed mainly to test the capacity of the NATO alliance to maintain free sea communications, particularly for the supply of food and fuel in the event of war. Seven NATO countries took part—Denmark, Norway, France, Britain, the United States, West Germany and Turkey.

This NATO activity belongs purely to the field of defence. Yet the wide range of participating countries bears witness to an important political fact: the underlying unity of the allies in spite of differences of interest or geographical distance.

Inside Britain today, there is another instance of the unifying force of NATO. Here the election campaign is being fought with mounting heat and forcefulness. Yet Britain's membership of NATO is so whole heartedly accepted and approved by all three political parties that it lies right outside and above all argument and dispute.

The Conservative and Labor parties equally state their faith in the idea and practice of interdependence within the Atlantic Alliance. The Liberal party is pressing for new NATO political institutions. All three take NATO as the foundation of Britain's defence policy. This is common ground.

The argument between them is simply over the question of how Britain can make the most effective contribution to NATO. The Conservatives believe in assigning Britain's nuclear bombers to the alliance but maintaining an independent British deterrent. The Liberals want to see Britain's nuclear strike aircraft integrated into the NATO structure. The Labor party believes in integrating all NATO nuclear weapons under effective political control and wants Britain to concentrate on strengthening her conventional regular forces so as to contribute her share to NATO defence.

★ ★ ★

In the British election campaign, therefore, NATO is a factor for unity. Elsewhere in the alliance its power to unify is shown in other ways. President de Gaulle is openly critical of NATO in its present form and has curtailed French co-operation with NATO in certain fields. Yet France remains integrated in the vitally important air defence system for Western European and French troops stationed in West Germany remain part of the NATO forces in Europe. It is clear that in practical terms, NATO remains an indispensable factor in French policy—if only because it is necessary for the defence of France.

On the southeastern flank of NATO in the eastern Mediterranean, NATO has shown its strength as an element of stability and unity in the midst of upheaval and conflict. Ever since the outbreak of fighting between the Greek and Turkish communities in Cyprus last Christmas, there has been great danger that the two NATO allies, Greece and Turkey, would become involved in war over Cyprus. In both countries there have been many people calling for armed intervention in the island. In each case the government had to choose between following popular demand or exercising restraint. In each case the government has at all crucial moments chosen restraint.

A strong factor in favor of restraint has been joint membership of NATO, which is the guarantee of national security and freedom for both these strategically exposed countries. The simple fact is that, as the delegate of an Afro-Asian country, Morocco, remarked in the Security Council debate on Cyprus, war between two allies would indeed be stupid.

Both allies have also seen the Soviet Union's keen interest in fomenting any trouble which would cripple the southeast wing of the NATO defence system, and in keeping Cyprus itself outside the NATO area. The Soviet offer of aid to President Makarios is obviously aimed less at arming Cyprus against the supposed Turkish threat, than at instigating the Greek Cypriot leaders to hold out against union with Greece and to work for an isolated, neutralized, demilitarized Cypriot state.

Thus Greece and Turkey, though deeply divided over Cyprus, have, nevertheless, been united by realization of a common danger, and above all by their joint membership of NATO. In this way, as in so many others, the Alliance has proved that it is solid and durable.

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest and be signed with pen-name, must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

I'm glad you showed a picture of the rape of the Heber River. This started a few years ago with the diversion of one of its principal tributories into the Buttle Lake storage system. Logging has been moving closer to the stream's shores every year and it was inevitable that debris would litter the banks eventually. Presumably we can now wave good-bye to another of our priceless steelhead rivers.

It is particularly timely to draw attention to this depredation, as it is still not too late to stop the same thing happening elsewhere, notably in the Morice, Bulkley and Skeena River valleys. In the latter, cutting for a pulp mill is likely to threaten the Kispiox River, which is world-famous as the home of record steelhead. It would be a tragedy to see it ravaged.

A society that thinks of trees as only good for chopping down; of farmland as only good for flooding or building on; of water as only good for making electricity; and of rivers as only good for carrying effluents to the sea, is as barren as the countryside it is busy ruining.

Soon those who are against this philosophy will be voices crying in a very real wilderness.

Ferry System

The Vancouver Island ferry system is a very important section of our national transportation system across Canada and is entitled to the same financial assistance that has been given the Trans-Canada Highway.

Our premier and Hon. Philip Gaglardi have provided a good ferry system on the toll bridge plan; which requires that charges will be maintained high enough to cover all capital costs.

We are not asking for a subsidy, but assistance in the same way that was given to the Trans-Canada Highway, which required that the Dominion and provincial governments contribute their share of all capital costs. Our ferries would still carry their share by providing all operating costs. We would then have a low-cost transportation system that would bring and keep industries here.

Will our prime minister the Hon. Lester Pearson co-operate with our minister of highways, who has said, "We will do our part any time the Dominion government will do theirs."

Dumping Ground

Vancouver Island has become the "dumping ground" for the cheap race horse.

An owner who possesses a moderate horse not up to top handicap class, after an unremunerative season at Exhibition Park, and severely crippled pocketwise by monthly training bills of $250 etc., etc., possibly hopes to find a little comfort at Sandown Park.

Here he is faced with a full card of "claiming races" in which he must either risk losing the horse he has treasured possibly for two years, at the ridiculous price of $800—or let the horse remain in the barn.

When, after much urging, one "allowance race" a week without the "claiming label" is "hung up" by the racing secretary, which might suit horses and owners, faced with a similar dilemma — they find their horses on the "also eligible" list and the stars they have earned at the B.C. Jockey Club's Exhibition Park meeting, count for nothing.

Small wonder that fleets of horses are shipping to Toronto to finish the season, or going across the line to American tracks.

Conditions will have to alter on Vancouver Island or we will be watching a flock of crocks hobbling around Sandown track while owners not wishing to lose their horses will give Sandown a miss.

Loss of Face

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

THROUGH a highly reliable source this column has just received the news that, while in Prague, Premier Khrushchev informed President Novotny that the U.S.S.R. would no longer demand a Communist World Conference in the summer of 1965, if such a project is not supported by a "representative majority" of the interested parties. Even the preparatory meeting of 26 parties, expected in Moscow during December, might be adjourned to a more propitious time. Everybody knows what that means.

To evaluate the significance of the event, one has to remember that Khrushchev tied his personal prestige to the calling of this meeting, which should deal with the Moscow-Peking conflict. Despite the advice of such good friends as Marshal Tito and President Gomulka he had insisted on the conference, which, he hoped, would crush his enemies. He especially expected thus to avoid the danger that Moscow might be blamed for the break-up of the Marxist-Leninist camp.

No doubt every adjournment, and especially a "sine die" postponement, will be a hard blow for the reputation of the master of the Kremlin. He will literally lose face. It is obvious that if Khrushchev is compelled to envisage such an eventuality his position must be weaker than generally believed.

There has been much talk recently of political difficulties in the U.S.S.R. Lacking authentic information on the matter it is better to treat such speculations with scepticism. Furthermore a possible switch of the Kremlin is easily explained by the situation within the Soviet Bloc.

Among the big names of the Communist world Khrushchev is quite isolated in his demand for the conference. He has only the unconditional support of East Germany's Ulbricht and Czechoslovakia's Novotny. Kadar and Gomulka maintain a cautious reserve, while the Rumanians and Tito are in open opposition. Their attitude has been strengthened by Togliatti's testament, which has made a deep impression in Communist ranks. A majority thus seems to fear that the world meeting might finish with a Soviet rout and a triumph for Mao Tse-tung. This would not be overly surprising, considering the growing Chinese influence on the leftwing parties everywhere.

Whatever the reasons, Khrushchev's retreat on such a major point would mark a defeat of the first magnitude, which necessarily would undermine his position. This is certainly not the moment to come to the aid of the man who, not so long ago, promised to bury us.

Today In History

(By The Canadian Press)

An American revolutionary force under command of George Washington was routed at Chadds Ford, Pa., by the 1st American Regiment, now the Queen's York Regiment, one of Canada's oldest military units, 187 years ago today—in 1777. The regiment was organized before the revolution by Robert Rogers, famed for his Rogers' Rangers, but later moved to Toronto by Lt.-Col. John Graves Simcoe. Simcoe was first lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada and he organized the unit as the Rangers.

1910 — A Rainy River, Ont., forest fire, swept by a tornado, took 42 lives.

1913—Oil was discovered at Okotoks, Alta., 28 miles from Calgary.

First World War

Fifty years ago today, in 1914, German troops closed in on Antwerp while Belgians stubbornly defended their line between the Rupel and the Nethe; the battle of the Vistula River in Poland began.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today, in 1939, Washington announced that the U.S. army was to be brought up to its full peacetime strength of 280,000 men; Finland called up its army reserve divisions "to strengthen the nation's neutrality"; German and French armies on the Western Front continued to shell each other heavily.

With the Classics

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods,
There is a rapture on the lonely shore,
There is society where none intrudes
By the deep Sea, and music in its roar;
I love not Man the less, but Nature more,
For these our interviews, in which I steal
From all I may be, or have been before,
To mingle with the Universe and feel
What I can ne'er express, yet can not all conceal.

U.S. Voters Want

No Extension Of Benefits —But No Cut

By LOUIS HARRIS

The mood of the electorate as the campaign passes the mid-point indicates Sen. Barry Goldwater has struck a responsive chord in his opposition to any broad-scale extension of the New Deal-Fair Deal philosophy of a welfare state.

The Republican candidate's problem, however, is that he has given the impression, rightly or wrongly, that he also wants to undo many of the economic measures of the past 30 years, such as social security and Tennessee Valley Authority. And it is precisely at this point that the voters part company with the Arizona senator.

A just-completed survey of a cross-section of people most likely to vote in November discloses these views on the role of the federal government and the impact of welfare programs on national life:

- 64 per cent of the electorate say they believe that welfare and relief payments tend to make people lazy.
- By a 51 to 49 per cent margin, the public as a whole now believe the New Deal has outlived its usefulness.
- 47 per cent tend to agree that the weak always want a hand-out while 84 per cent think of self-reliance as a trait of the strong.

Emerging from these results is a strong indication that the dynamism and appeal of the New Deal philosophy of the 1930s has lost much of its steam. In fact, further findings from this latest survey reveal that many of the old political shibboleths no longer impress voters as they once did.

The Harris Survey

- For example, 73 per cent of the voters reject the idea that depressions take place while Republicans are in office.
- 67 per cent do not accept the notion that the Republicans are against the working man.
- On the other hand, 63 per cent also reject the assertion unions receive too much protection under the Democrats.

Clearly, the Goldwater candidacy marks a turning point in American politics, the end of an era of sharp cleavages over which party started the depression of the 1930s and which party can best give prosperity to the country.

These attitudes do not mean, however, that Americans are prepared to turn their backs on their less fortunate neighbors. Voters subscribe overwhelmingly to the thesis that government muse be used to guarantee the basic necessities of life.

- A clear majority of 68 per cent feel that government must see to it that no person goes without food, clothing or shelter.
- An even higher 74 per cent say that they think the government ought to be used to protect the weak.

A carefully-drawn cross-section of the electorate was asked:

"Do you tend to believe or not believe in the following statements that have been made by some people?"

Welfare State Attitudes

Tend to Believe:	Total Voters Per Cent	Voting for Goldwater Voters Per Cent (31% of all voters)	Voting for Johnson Voters Per Cent (69% of all voters)
Self-reliance is a trait of the strong	84	88	83
Government must be used to protect the weak	74	62	77
Government must see that no one is without food, clothing or shelter	68	54	73
Welfare and relief make people lazy	64	82	59
The New Deal has outlived its usefulness	51	75	44
The weak always want a hand-out	47	51	45
Big federal government can be a menace to individual liberty	42	66	35
Under Democrats, unions receive too much protection	37	72	25
Republicans are not for the working people	33	9	41
Federal tax system is used to punish success	30	48	24
Depressions take place when Republicans are in office	27	7	34

Emphasis on Extension

It is evident that a political leader can find an effective issue by opposing any broadside extension of the New Deal welfare philosophy. But it is equally apparent that the emphasis of voters is on the word "extension" and does not include a mandate to undo the past 30 years of welfare measures.

As past surveys have shown, part of the reason for this dramatic change about social reform is that the problems of the country have shifted from physical hunger to mental strain and stress. Part is the continuing high level of prosperity that exists in most of the country. But part, too, is that today's welfare needs now centre heavily among the Negro minority in the nation. This has transformed the issue of welfare extension from the economic self-interest of the 1930s to a question of justice for people who happen to have darker skins.

Laing Gives Offshore Ultimatum

VANCOUVER (CP) — Resources Minister Laing said Tuesday the federal government will make one last attempt at a dominion-provincial conference next week to settle jurisdiction of offshore minerals.

"If we can't come to an agreement next week, the federal government plans to go to the Supreme Court of Canada to ask for a decision," he said.

The federal government claims jurisdiction over offshore minerals. But Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia and the Atlantic provinces governments dispute that.

Premier Bennett has said that B.C. had jurisdiction over offshore minerals before Confederation and nothing has happened since to take that jurisdiction away.

Railcar Hoist Yields Brass

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Thieves with lots of brass lifted a box car and later made off with some more brass. Police said $312 worth of brass axle bearings were missing from a Denver and Rio Grande freight car parked on a siding. They said the only way to steal the bearings was to lift the car.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Hart Highway has been renamed the John Hart - Peace River Highway, Highways Minister Gaglardi has announced. He did not give any reason for the name change. The highway links Prince George with Dawson Creek.

Plywood Shares

Sale Minus Dividend

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A share issue which will never pay a cash dividend is being offered in British Columbia this week for $7,500 a share, and apparently it is going to find a market.

Canadian Plywood Corporation of Vancouver is offering 400 shares ($5,000 down and the remaining $2,500 over five years) to finance a new plywood plant planned for the Greater Vancouver area.

Only one share will be sold to any one person, and most of the subscribers are likely to do so on the inducement of getting well paid jobs in the plant.

WORKER-OWNED

Robert C. Flint, president of the newly formed Canadian company, said the operation would be similar to the worker-owned Richmond Plywood Company started eight years ago.

"We expect most of the shares will be sold to prospective workers in the new plant, but others will purchase shares as an investment," said Mr. Flint.

Like other co-operatively-owned institutions, Mr. Flint said that Canadian Plywood Corporation would not pay any dividends.

"When our profits go up we disburse the proceeds in higher wages to our shareholder employees," he said.

CAPITAL GAINS

Asked what inducement there would be for non-workers who subscribe for the new shares Mr. Flint said, "We offer them handsome capital gains on which they will have to pay no tax . . . but there are no dividends."

He said that those who had invested $5,000 in the Richmond plant eight years ago had a share now worth $15,000.

The Richmond profits are all paid out in wages to the owner workers.

BETTER SCALE

"The current rate there is $3.75 an hour, much better than the normal plywood industry wage which runs between $2.50 and $3.00 an hour," explained Mr. Flint.

Canadian Plywood Corporation will be independent of Richmond, but several of those connected with the new venture were at one time connected with the other company.

A key man in the operation will be production superintendent Eldon Shelly who has had 20 years of experience in the plywood industry and who set up the Richmond plant. Two others are Loren F. Welch and R. Morrow who were also prime movers in the Richmond company. These three men along with Mr. Flint are directors.

JOB PREFERENCE

Mr. Flint says that persons who become shareholders will receive job preference and job security. There will be about 350 jobs available.

Although the B.C. securities commission does not usually blue sky the sale of securities in which a job is promised it has made an exception in this case.

No site has yet been selected for the new plant, but it will be on tidewater in the Greater Vancouver area.

HELD IN ESCROW

"We hope to start construction in six to eight weeks, but it depends on the sale of shares," said Mr. Flint. "These will be held in escrow by a trust company until they are all sold."

Once that happens he says the plant will be in production within eight months.

BOOMING CARBIDE

The newly issued shares of Union Carbide continued to attract investors Tuesday, when the secondary market at one time rose to $27¼, more than three points over the issue price of $24. Investment interest in the share is said to be strong.

TIME TO SAVE

This is the time of year when many employees have an opportunity of planning their savings for the next 12 months. Most large firms have facilities to enable their employees to purchase Canada Savings Bonds by payroll deduction, and the popularity of this type of saving is growing every year.

The 1964 version of Canada Savings Bonds went on offer this week and they are largely similar to those of a year ago. They pay a flat 5 per cent if held to maturity, with the first two years coupons paying 4½ per cent; then five years at 5 per cent, and the last three years at 5½ per cent.

Organizing the sale of bonds by payroll deduction plan on Vancouver Island is Bill Munro, Victoria investment dealer, who has played a similar role with all former CSB drives.

After making his preliminary calls, Mr. Munro says the bonds look like going well.

BRISKER OIL FLOW

Business was sharply brisker in September for Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company when its average daily deliveries were 231,395 barrels. This is 53,987 barrels a day more than was handled by the line in September 1963, and the second best month in the company's history.

Deliveries for October are expected to run at 228,000 barrels including 5,000 barrels of butane.

She Praises 'Spirit of Understanding'

Queen Calls Confederation Great Act of Statesmanship

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Canada's Queen marked Confederation's 100th birthday when she officially opened a $5,600,000 group of cultural buildings Tuesday.

Stressing the spirit of understanding and confidence that prevailed when the nation was born, she described Confederation as "a great act of political statesmanship."

In serious mood for the first time since her cheerful and relaxed arrival for an eight-day Canadian visit Monday, she might have been thinking of the nation's present bicultural argument. For she spoke of the important role of Georges-Etienne Cartier in creating a federal union and added: "The dream has materialized thanks to the spirit of understanding and confidence which the delegates of the various provinces have shown."

How right Cartier was, she said, to "believe in the possibility of an entente cordiale between men of good will."

The same theme marked the welcoming address of Prime Minister Pearson when he asked the Queen to open the massive memorial which honored "the peaceful welding of a nation by negotiation and good will."

CHEERFUL AND RELAXED

But for the rest of the day, from the ceremonial arrival of the royal yacht Britannia to her attendance at the royal command variety performance at night, the Queen was cheerful and relaxed as she responded to lively demonstrations of cheering and flag-waving while she slowly toured the streets en route to her various engagements.

The big black limousine moved slowly through the streets and the Queen insisted that the door windows be dropped so that the thousands straining for a good look could get it. On previous tours the Queen rode in an open convertible or, on inclement days, under a plexiglass top. The limousine this time is a regular sedan and thus has some disadvantages for spectators.

GIVE LUNCH

The royal couple entertained at lunch for Governor-General Vanier, the prime minister and other top officials. This was followed by the Queen's departure for the Confederation buildings.

A squad of chiefs and petty officers blew shrill blasts of their bosun's whistles to pipe her ashore, where she took the salute from a smart guard of honor composed of red-coated Canadian Guards.

The steep gangway was difficult for the elderly governor-general to negotiate and the young Queen seemed to slip and catch herself at the bottom and laughed at her momentary predicament.

MOOD IS RELAXED

After the serious moments of speech - making the relaxed mood that has marked this tour over any previous royal visit again prevailed. The Queen chatted animatedly with Dr. Frank MacKinnon, chief of Prince Edward Island's centennial committee, as he led her on a tour of the various buildings devoted to theatre, art and literature.

She was especially interested in Canadian paintings by such artists as Emily Carr. But when the prince spotted a bulky Eskimo carving he chuckled and pointed: "That's a fine buxom woman."

And there was a general guffaw from the prince and the prime minister when they spotted the modern mural of Vancouver artist Jack Shadbolt, a composite of bits and pieces of flags. The Queen was more diplomatic and subdued. She only smiled.

After Beating

Imprint Found On Beer Bottle

A beer bottle found at an isolated beating scene bore the palm print of one of two men accused of attempting to murder Nicola Zegaric, 24, of Flin Flon, Man., a court was told Tuesday.

RCMP fingerprint expert Corp. Robert C. King, of Vancouver, said a palm print taken from a bottle retrieved by police matched that of Gary McWhirter, 20, of Sooke.

McWhirter and 22-year-old Rodney Leason, of 1300 Gladstone, were charged after Zegaric identified them as the men who beat him into unconsciousness with beer bottles and boots Sept. 10.

SIXTH DAY

The preliminary hearing will move into its sixth day today with half a dozen witnesses heard from and 18 Crown exhibits produced in almost as many hours of sitting.

The fingerprint expert said the flattened ridges of the print on the bottle indicated "some pressure had been exerted" on the bottle.

He admitted under cross examination the pressure might have been exerted in opening the stubby bottle, squeezing it in the hand or striking something with it.

GIRL IN CAR

City police constable Edward James told the court he had been investigating a Sept. 9 charge by Zegaric that a girl had been raped by two men at a party at Leason's apartment.

Const. James said he and partner Murray McArthur had taken the "intoxicated and hysterical" man back to the apartment and had found a 15-year-old girl sitting in a nearby car. Zegaric identified her as the girl he had said was raped.

The girl told police she had been forced to accompany two men to a nearby park where both raped her.

She retracted the statement later in the face of medical evidence to the contrary after police took her to hospital for examination, the constable told the court.

The girl was later taken to a juvenile home where she was picked up by her parents and returned to her Vancouver home, said the witness.

DRUNK CHARGE

Zegaric, who had to be restrained from leaving the police car during the investigation of his charges Sept. 9, was booked on a drunk charge when his charges were discredited by the girl.

Zegaric was beaten the next day, after he left jail.

The hearing's final three witnesses, including the landlady of Leason's apartment will be heard in today's sitting expected to be the last.

Slapping Cash-Grab Sends Man to Jail

An 18-month jail term was imposed on a Victoria man who slapped a woman grocery clerk while he grabbed $7 from the store's till last week.

Elrven Spill, 33, of the Salvation Army hostel, had earlier pleaded guilty to robbery with violence.

A psychiatrist had told the court Spill was not mentally ill, although his judgment was not as good as it might be.

"You were well aware that what you were doing was wrong but you went ahead and did it anyway," said Magistrate William Ostler as he passed sentence.

A 33-year-old transient who cut his wrist breaking into Oakland Industries Ltd., 1306 Wharf Street, Monday night was remanded until today for sentence.

The court was told Lyle B. Henry, who pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering, had climbed to the downtown firm's roof by way of a fire escape at about 10 p.m.

When an attempt to pry open a roof-level office window with an old hoe failed, the man smashed the window glass and cut himself.

He was arrested a little later on Yates Street.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said Henry has a record of numerous similar offences on the prairies and in Victoria, dating back to 1955.

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finland's Social Democrats handed the Communists a setback Tuesday by leading a swing to the left in municipal elections held throughout the country.

On the basis of incomplete figures, the Social Democrats were given a chance to emerge as Finland's largest single party. The position would give them a strong hand in any new government negotiations.

MPs Likely To Get A Holiday

OTTAWA (CP)—Acting Prime Minister Martin said Tuesday he felt sure the Commons will not sit next Monday when the Queen is in Ottawa.

He was asked by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker why the House was not proceeding with a motion that would allow the Commons to take a holiday Monday. Mr. Martin said that the motion was not being dealt with immediately because negotiations were under way with "various sections" of the House on the question.

Mr. Martin said Tuesday he was "sure it is the wish of this House that we do not sit on Monday."

122 Military Officers Being Retired Soon

Yankees 9-5 to Win

Kubek Misses World Series

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Injured Tony Kubek was lost to the New York Yankees for the entire world series Tuesday, but the Yankees remained 9-5 favorites over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Whitey Ford, the Yanks' cagey left - hander, will oppose another lefty, 23-year-old Ray Sadecki, in today's opener at Busch Stadium.

Kubek, out of action for two weeks due to a jammed right wrist, was replaced on the list of eligibles by Mike Hegan, a rookie first baseman who is the son of Yankee coach Jim Hegan. Commissioner Ford Frick approved the substitution with the assent of Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane.

Phil Linz, the harmonica-playing rascal who drew a $200 fine from Manager Yogi Berra for tooting "Mary Had a Little Lamb" on a bus after the Yanks had lost four straight in Chicago, will play shortstop in Kubek's place just as he had down the stretch.

This will be the 22nd series start for Ford, a 35-year-old veteran whose series record dates back to 1950.

The pitcher-coach managed a 17-6 won-lost record for the Yanks on their way to a fifth straight American League pennant.

LEADS PITCHERS

He has been in more Series than any other pitcher, 11, pitched in more games and won more, 10. In his last tune-up Friday night he clinched a pennant tie by beating Cleveland 5-2, allowing no hits in the last 7 1-3 innings.

Sadecki is a youngster in his first series. In fact, only shortstop Dick Groat, outfielder Bob Skinner and relief pitcher Roger Craig have series experience.

The $80,000 bonus lefty gets the starting call from Keane because he had to use Bob Gibson in relief to nail down the National League pennant in Sunday's finale.

The weather man predicted sunny and pleasant weather today, with temperatures of 65 to 70 for St. Louis's first series since 1946.

A sellout crowd of about 32,000 was assured with tickets and hotel rooms at a premium.

Mel Stottlemyre, Yankee rookie, will face Gibson in the second game Thursday. Then the series will take Friday off for travel and resume in New York Saturday.

Both the Cardinals and Yanks worked out at Busch Stadium Tuesday, the Yanks coming to the park direct from the airport after their flight from New York.

Even the right-handed hitters like Elston Howard and Clete Boyer were slashing to right field, hoping to take advantage of the right field pavilion, only Telecast of today's game, over channels 2 and 5, begins at 10:15 a.m., according to the networks involved.

310 feet away. However, there is a screen 36 feet, 8 inches high in front of the pavilion and balls are in play off the screen.

Julian Javier, the Cards' second baseman who had been a doubtful starter because of a painfully bruised left hip, will play. So will Ken Boyer, the Cards' slugging third baseman and brother of the Yankees' Clete, who has a slight pulled hamstring muscle.

Yankees Computer Choice

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Big Magic, a computer at the Franklin Institute, Tuesday gave the new York Yankees a 65 per cent chance to win the world series in seven games.

The Honeywell computer, "playing" 100 games between the Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals after digesting individual batting and pitching records said the Yanks' chances of winning four straight were only 10 per cent.

New York has a 29 per cent chance of taking the series in five games and a 48 per cent chance of doing so in six. On any individual game, the computer said the Yanks had a 57 per cent chance and the Cardinals, 43 per cent.

Scribes, Too

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A poll of 51 sportswriters and sportscasters covering the world series showed the New York Yankees favored by a 2-1 margin Tuesday.

The most popular selection was the Yankees to win in six games. That drew 21 votes.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

The first Victoria district monthly medals of the season will be played at Gorge Vale Sunday.

Local professionals are expected to play a dominant role this winter, and looking down the list, it isn't surprising.

Leading the pros is new convert Bill Wakeham, who was the top player in last Sunday's Victoria versus Vancouver exhibition match at Shaughnessy. The former Gorge Vale amateur is the favorite for everything he enters around these parts.

Apart from Wakeham, however, the pros have Ron McLeod, several times a winter medallist; Dick Munn, who is doing a fine job with the young golfers at Cedar Hill, and Laurie Carroll, the former Victoria club pro and current Island match-play champion.

These fellows will be the ones to beat in the current series.

A few years ago, Victoria district events were almost completely dominated by amateurs, but times have changed and the switch-over to the pro side by Wakeham has greatly weakened the unpaid ranks.

One of the best bets among the amateurs at the moment is young Ricky Kent, the 18-year-old city junior champion, who last Sunday won his way into the final of the Royal Colwood championship.

The current winter medal goes to a player with the lowest aggregate of the three rounds played in October, November and December.

The B.C. government's 1967 centennial committee has produced an attractive brochure on Victoria and its golfing facilities for distribution to the representatives of the Commonwealth countries who will be playing in the World Cup at Rome next week.

The publication has been taken to Rome by W. Arthur Johnston, president of the RCGA and non-playing captain of the Canadian team. It will show the Commonwealth golfers what they can expect when they come to Victoria in 1967 to play the Commonwealth matches at the Victoria club, and in the Canadian Amateur at Royal Colwood.

The U.S. and Canadian teams who finished one-two in the last World Cup matches at Tokyo, will find themselves playing under strange rules next week at Rome.

The competition will be played under Royal and Ancient rules, which means there is no flagstick penalty, but the minimum penalty of stroke and distance, or two strokes for an unplayable ball.

So far as is known here, only in North America have the USGA 1964 rules been adopted, and the rest of the world sticks with the R. and A. as it has done in the past.

Indeed even in the U.S. and Canada, there is grave doubt that the flagstick penalty rule is going to survive. It is generally opposed by the rank and file of golf, who deem it unnecessary and a waste of time and energy. Many players in their private matches ignore the rule altogether, which is an indication of the futility of the whole thing.

Frank Scroggs won the Uplands club championship for the sixth time on Sunday when he outstayed 18-year-old Roger Bishop in the 36-hole final.

Roger was one up at the end of the first 18, but he started spraying his tee shots in the second round, and nine holes later he had blown any advantage he had and was three down. Frank then coasted home to a 4-3 victory.

Frank has been a dominant figure in Uplands golf since the war. He won his first title in 1951 and followed it up with other successes in 1953, 1954, 1955, 1957 and now 1964. In addition Scroggs was twice beaten finalist—once to the late Bob Woods and once to Gordon Pellow. In between 1957 and 1963, Scroggs played little golf as a result of injuries sustained in a car accident.

* * *

Another local swinger who must be congratulated this week is Mrs. Shirley Naysmith, who on Sunday won the Gorge Vale ladies' championship for the 11th time.

* * *

The 36-hole final of the Royal Colwood Golf Club will be played Sunday between Bert Saxon and Ricky Kent.

Saxon beat Dick Sparks, 3-2, in one semi-final and Kent won the other, 5-4, against Joe Evans.

* * *

Senior buttons-holders Cliff Archer and Jack Clark of Gorge Vale had an easy win over clubmates Ray Spouse and Jack Brown, winning on the 12th green at Uplands last week. Next challengers are Larry McCooey, just back from his European holiday, and Harry Pike of Colwood. Match is at Victoria Golf Club.

* * *

The Fall trophies at the Gregarah Golf Club at Prospect Lake at the weekend were won by Art Williams and Mrs. Joan Webber. Some 60 of the club's 72 members took part in the competitions for the Bob Gonnason trophies.

Two Uniteds Absent For Sunday's Game

Victoria United will be without centre-forward Jim Jamieson and winger Dunc McCaig for its Coast Soccer League match here Sunday against Vancouver North Shore.

McCaig, who has had a broken nose repaired, will probably miss only the one match but Jamieson has been lost to the club for at least a month and will be hospitalized for two weeks.

Jamieson got an elbow in the ribs during last Saturday's opener against Vancouver Canadians. When the injury bothered him X-rays were taken and disclosed that a kidney surface had been split.

Meanwhile, United completed its lengthy exhibition schedule at Royal Athletic Park, blanking Price and Smith of the district league, 7-0.

Ash Valdal scored three times, Russ Ball twice and Ced Robb and Marty Taylor once each.

Eskimos Break Western Jinx

EDMONTON—Edmonton Eskimos, who hadn't beaten a Western Football Conference club since 1962, broke a streak which had extended 18 games on Tuesday night by defeating Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 25-22, before 12,463 fans.

It was the third win of the season, and the fifth in two years, for the Eskimos. Their two victories last year and their two previous decisions this year were against Eastern Conference opponents.

Edmonton's last previous victory over west opposition occurred in Winnipeg Nov. 3, 1962, when Eskimos nipped Blue Bombers, 18-12.

For the Bombers, who missed the playdowns last season for the first time since 1949, it may have meant their first last-place finish in 15 years. With only three games left, against Montreal, Edmonton and B.C. Lions, they are three points behind the Eskimos. And long since officially out of playoff contention.

Quarterback John Anabo, who completed 10 of 15 passes, two of them for touchdowns, led the Eskimos as the Bombers went down to their 10th straight defeat—a record since the interlocking schedule was introduced.

WASHED OUT

Eskimos had to overcome early adversity to win it. First of all, Leo Lewis ran 87 yards for a Winnipeg touchdown, converted by himself, and then a touchdown pass to Tommy-Joe Coffey from Anabo was washed out on an interference call.

It was 7-1 after the first quarter, Eskimos' only point coming on a wide field-goal try by Bill Mitchell.

ESKS RALLY

Then the Eskimos rallied. Mitchell kicked a 47-yard three-pointer in the second minute of the second quarter. Anabo passed 46 yards to Bill Tobin and 35 to Coffey for touchdowns. Mitchell converted both and it was 18-7 at half-time.

Tobin scored again midway through the third quarter and Mitchell converted for 25-7. Then it was a case of holding off the Bombers.

Winnipeg got two third-quarter points on a conceded safety, Art Perkins scored an unconverted touchdown at 7:15 of the fourth quarter and Norm Rauhaus made it uncomfortable at 10:33 by running 40 yards to score after picking up a fumbled punt.

Bombers tried an onside kick late in the game but Ian Hagemoen balked them and penalties for no yards and roughing the kicker brought the ball to the Winnipeg 17-yard line. Eskimos just ran out the remaining seconds.

Saskatchewan Loses Quarterback, Game

OTTAWA — Ottawa Rough Riders, taking command when Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster left the game for keeps in the first quarter, defeated the Prairie Roughriders, 27-3, in an interlocking Canadian Football League game played before 19,710 fans Tuesday night.

Saskatchewan coach Bob Shaw blamed defeat on the loss of Lancaster early in the game but a bigger worry than defeat was the extent of Lancaster's injuries.

Hit hard by tackle Billy Joe Booth, Lancaster had to be helped from the field. Broken or separated ribs were first feared but later information indicates the injury may not be quite that serious and that Lancaster may only have to miss next Monday's game against Toronto.

Saskatchewan led, 3-0, when Lancaster was injured, on a 15-yard field goal by Reg Whitehouse. Ottawa got started late in the quarter, finally scored from 33 yards on four plays with Dave Thelen plunging for the last four yards.

Moe Racine converted, and provided the only second-quarter score with a 19-yard field goal.

FINALLY CRUMBLES

A stubborn Saskatchewan defence finally crumbled in the fourth quarter as Ottawa iced it with 17 points. Jay Roberts, on a nine-yard pass from Russ Jackson, and Thelen, on a five-yard plunge, scored touchdowns. Racine converted each time and added a 20-yard field goal.

Bob Ptacek quarterbacked after Lancaster left and Saskatchewan, showing the strain of having played the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton on Sunday, was further hampered when Ed Buchanan and Hugh Campbell dropped passes in the end zone.

Jackson was the Ottawa star, although Saskatchewan contained his passing game to 89 yards on six completions in 13 throws. Frustrated in the air, Jackson ran for 134 yards. And that was more than the entire Saskatchewan rushing total. Roberts got 56 of the air yards with four receptions.

Fullback George Reed got 54 of Saskatchewan's overland gain of 107 yards while Buchanan rushed for 41 and caught passes for 51 yards.

A meeting at Memorial Arena last night officially brought into being the Vancouver Island Hockey League, a four-team group which will be affiliated with the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association as an intermediate league.

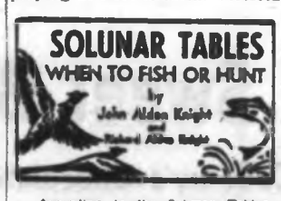

Arena manager Jack Morgan was named chairman of an executive which will also include a representative from each of the four clubs—Port Alberni and Nanaimo and the two Victoria entries, Safeway Canadians and Dorman's Cavaliers.

League play will start on Saturday, Oct. 24 with Nanaimo playing at Port Alberni. Victoria clubs will open on Monday, Oct. 26 with Canadians and Cavaliers playing.

All Victoria games with the exception of those involving Port Alberni will be held Monday nights at Memorial Arena. Port Alberni will play here Sunday afternoons with game time at 4.

It was announced that the league will play a balanced schedule and have a three-team playoff with the championship club drawing a bye.

Completing the executive with Morgan are Dick Hawksworth of Port Alberni, Frank Crane of Nanaimo, Bill Kirby of Canadians and Keith Dorman of Cavaliers.

Girls' Soccer Just Too Much for Referee

IPSWICH, England (AP)—Soccer referee Roger Smith announced today he's finished with women's football.

Smith, 47, made his decision after a girls' match between Ipswich and nearby Stowmarket ended in a riot.

Ipswich was leading by three fights, one judo throw and six goals to one when he ejected right back Linda Garwood of Ipswich for foul play.

Linda refused to go. The Ipswich girls staged a sit-down in the middle of the field.

More fights erupted, then a flood of tears. The game, billed as a charity match, was abandoned.

Eighteen - year - old Linda said:

"I had beaten my opponent fairly. She didn't like it and made a grab at my hair.

"Judo happens to be my hobby so I took her by the arm and gave her a gentle hip throw and the referee ordered me off."

Ipswich team manager Frank Nightingale said he's following referee Smith out of women's football.

"I've resigned," he said.

"One of the girls even brought her mother on the field to argue with the ref."

Brundage Keeps Position And Olympic Headaches

TOKYO (AP) — Avery Brundage, the controversial American advocate of amateurism, was re-elected today to a third term as head of the International Olympic Committee. He will serve four years.

Brundage, a Chicago hotel man who has devoted his life to amateur athletics, was first elected in 1952 to an eight-year term and re-elected for four years in 1960.

He had been expected to step aside this time for the Marquis of Exeter of England, a former Olympic champion and long regarded as Brundage's successor.

Lord David Burghley, Marquis of Exeter, retained his post as a vice-president.

There are plenty of headaches ahead for the victor.

Russia probably will raise the GANEFO—Games of the New Emerging Forces—issue; East Germany will manoeuvre again for full membership in the IOC instead of sharing a team with West Germany, and discussions will be held to determine whether soccer, cycling and basketball should be banished from future Olympic games because of increasing professionalism involving these team sports.

ATHLETES BARRED

GANEFO, staged by Indonesia as a protest after the country was suspended for barring Israel and Nationalist China from the Asian games, was not approved by the IOC and the international federations. While Indonesia was reinstated in time to compete in the coming Olympics, athletes who competed in GANEFO are still on the banned list.

Indonesian hopes to have its entire team qualified for the 1964 Olympics suffered a setback Tuesday.

The executive committee of the International Amateur Swimming Federation voted that swimmers who took part in last November's GANEFO in Jakarta should not take part in the Olympic swimming events.

North Korean swimmers who took part in the Jakarta games also are banned from the Olympics.

The swimming federation's vote affected all the Indonesian Olympic swimmers because the entire team competed in the Jakarta games.

A demand by the Russian delegate that the decision be reconsidered was turned down. He said Indonesians were not aware the suspension would last a year.

Russia was joined in the vote by delegates from Italy, Yugoslavia, Sweden and Holland. Delegates from the United States, Britain, Hong Kong, Japan, France, Australia, South Africa and Belgium voted against the request.

Several North Korean competitors, including the world's fastest woman over 800 metres, Sin Kim Dan, as well as a number of Indonesians were also banned.

Indonesian delegation sources said Tuesday night Indonesian Sports Minister Maladi was still hopeful of a new development that would allow Indonesian swimmers and athletes to compete.

Vancouver 'Killing' Soccer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the Western Canada Soccer League says Vancouver officials are killing the game's progress in Canada.

Bob Barbosa of Calgary accused the British Columbia Soccer Commission of sitting on $60,000 and said the Pacific Coast League is "a typical example of Vancouver's stick-in-the-mud attitude."

"This country is prepared for another professional sport to fill the gap between hockey and football and Vancouver holds the key to the pro soccer door," he said in an interview Monday while holidaying here.

Barbosa said the only thing the B.C. Soccer Commission is getting for its $60,000 "is a good interest rate."

"Why it doesn't spend some money to promote the game at a senior level I'll never know."

He said he thought Vancouver should start the ball rolling toward establishing a professional soccer league in the four western provinces because of the fan appeal there.

He suggested soccer should follow the steps of football and eventually be played on an interlocking basis.

"Eastern Canada has led the way in Canada and the people in that part of the Dominion appear to have a fairly successful professional operation."

Distractions Must Go

Dogs and Dames Marathon Hazard

By WILL GRIMSLEY

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese Olympic officials are concerned about two major hazards to the games: Barking dogs and semi-nude girls.

They announced with solemn faces Tuesday they are taking firm steps to get rid of both.

The noisy hounds and the scantily clad musume - san—the local term for dames—dot the routes of the marathon runners and the road cyclists.

These, the organizers insist, are definite distractions.

The dogs run out and yap at the jogging cross-country runners and the bicycle racers.

They can kick at the dogs, but lose valuable time. The runners may lose a chunk of thigh. The cyclists could have a dangerous spill.

Even more hazardous are the girls, operators of the 167 Turkish baths that thrive in the bustling city.

Despite laws imposed for the duration of the games, these comely daughters of Nippon, wearing considerably less than the bikini seen on the beaches of the Riviera, stand in front of their establishments, smiling and giggling.

This could cause more than accidents, the officials say. It may provoke outright desertions. The marathoners and cyclists may never finish their races.

A team of dog-catchers has been dispatched to the race areas. The health department is trying to police the nudity hazard.

Olympic distractions are not confined to the Japanese countryside.

The most serious ones may be found in the brightly lighted, bustling cabarets on the ginza.

Here pretty Japanese girls, many of them tall and leggy like the comic-strip Dragon Lady come to life, stand behind a latice curtain and send provocative messages with their eyes toward customers drinking at the bar.

Unlike the B-girls operating in some American saloons, they aren't permitted to solicit companionship. They can only stand and smile fetchingly until a male customer, like picking out a can of beans in a supermarket, makes his choice.

Mann Wins Navy Golf

Cy Mann captured the Royal Canadian Navy Golf Association handicap tournament at Gorge Vale recently winning a close 2-1 victory over 36 holes from Wally Delamont.

Bill Big Canoe, W. Provencal, R. Carter and R. Diega were the flight winners.

with Alec Merriman

The most important factor that decides the fate of your day's fishing or hunting is in the trend of the barometer, say John Alden Knight and his son, Richard, who compile the solunar tables for The Daily Colonist.

Fishing and hunting and the glass go hand in hand, they explain.

If the glass is falling, don't blame any of the hundred and one things (including your solunar tables) which may affect your day's sport. It is not in the cards for you to find a good day's fishing when the barometer is falling, they advise.

Solunar influence sometimes will offset a slight drop in the glass and the fish will feed, but more often the reverse is the case.

Generally the fish lie deep when the glass is falling, and sometimes a good catch can be made by fishing well down in deeper water.

That is your best bet in any event under unfavorable barometric conditions.

In the absence of other means of determination, a fairly accurate gauge of barometric trend is to watch the leaves of trees. If, as the wind blows, the leaves turn over, showing their light undersides, you can be safe in assuming that the glass is falling and a change of weather for the worse is to be expected. If the leaves stay right side up in the wind, it usually indicates a high or rising glass. Thus you can gauge your fishing or hunting accordingly.

Game is affected by barometric changes just as fish. With the approach of a storm, uplands birds and game seek the heavy cover for protection. Usually, when the glass is falling, the open feeding covers will be deserted.

Ducks become quite restless as soon as the glass begins to fall, trading back and forth and affording good shooting.

* * *

The Knights make a point to remind sportsmen that fishing and shooting always are subject to weather conditions and observe that this is true also of solunar periods.

They point out that "the solunar tables are not a guarantee that fish will come tumbling to your lure or that covers will be filled with game. They are a forecast of the probable periods of activity . . . the times during which fish and game are most likely to feed if they are going to do so during any given day.

"You know perfectly well that you don't have good fishing or good shooting every time you go out. If we could guarantee you a daily limit of fish or game, we doubt very much that we would do so," say the Knights. 'But we can tell you this. If you plan each day so that you are on good water or in good cover during the solunar periods, you will have the best sport that day has to offer."

They call the solunar periods the "odd-hour" feeding periods.

They recognize dawn and dusk as normal periods of activity, when most sportsmen try to take advantage of the early morning and night feeding periods.

But, they observe, the "odd-hour" periods which occur during the day . . . and night . . . must be stumbled upon by luck unless there is a guide. And that is where solunar tables come into play.

* * *

They explain that years ago, while there was still such a thing as legal market hunting, the men who made their living by shooting game and catching fish, found that these odd-hour activity periods seemed to be in rhythm with the moon's daily southings. Accordingly they planned their work in accord with this schedule, calculated rather loosely, going afield when the moon was directly overhead or directly underfoot . . . moon-up . . . moon-down, was the rule.

It was from the grandson of an old Georgia market hunter that the idea for the solunar theory first came.

By taking those old schedules of moon-up . . . moon-down and apply modern science to it, the Knights learned much of wildlife behavior. And in doing so they learned to forecast, a year or more in advance, these odd-hour activity and feeding periods.

In view of the fact that the sun also plays its part in the formation of the schedule they coined the word "solunar," a combination of sol and lunar. Thus the odd-hour periods are called solunar periods.

Solunar periods occur usually four times daily. The lunar day being 24 hours and 50 minutes, there are some days of each month in which 24 hours will not accommodate all four of its solunar periods.

Minor periods are usually of shorter duration than the major periods. Major periods, when conditions are ideal, have been known to last as long as three and a half hours. Mostly, however, their duration is about two hours. Minor periods last from an hour and a half to 45 minutes. But don't make the mistake of ignoring these shorter periods. Many times the best sport of the day is found in this short pace of time.

Face-Offs Important

More Than Game-Starter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Many a hockey game is lost at the drop of a puck, according to Norman (Bud) Poile, former National Hockey Leaguer and highly successful coach.

Many fans, and even a lot of coaches, fail to realize the importance of the face-off to a hockey team, says Poile, now general manager of the San Francisco Seals of the Western Hockey League.

"They seem to think it's just a way to get the game started," he says.

But Poile, 40, who played in the NHL for eight years and saw service with five of the six teams, doesn't look at it that way.

"We don't have the statistics they do in baseball," he says, "but one of the things I always keep is the number of face-offs we win or lose and how well each man does at the job.

"Championships have been won and lost on face-offs."

30 PER GAME

Poile says there are about 30 face-offs during a hockey game, with each centreman usually in on about 10.

Poile says good, strong arms are important in gaining the face-off, as are quick reflexes and timing.

"In golf they say keep your eye on the ball. Well, I tell my players to keep their eye on the puck. Watch it in the referee's hand and be ready to pounce when it hits the ice."

In general, Poile says, the team on offence is trying to send the puck back to the blue line for a shot when it is faced off, while the defence is trying to get it into the corner so no shot can be made on the net.

"But once in a while you can set up a play from the face-off—like a quick opener in football," he says.

BEST IN GAME

Poile cited Ted Kennedy of Toronto and Elmer Lach of Montreal as NHL players who were outstanding at getting the face-off. In the WHL, where Poile has run up an enviable record of getting his teams into the playoffs, he named Phil Maloney of Vancouver and Norm Johnson of Los Angeles as the best.

"And of course there are some players who will never get a face-off in their life," he says.

"The face-off is not the whole game, of course," Poile admits, "but nine times out of 10 the team that is getting the most face-offs is going better in that game."

Paper Names Top Rookies

Tony Oliva, Minnesota outfielder, and Richie Allen, Philadelphia third - baseman, were named rookie players of the year. And the rookie pitchers of the year were righthander Wally Bunker of Baltimore Orioles and southpaw Bill McCool of Cincinnati Reds.

Victorians Back Red Teacher

A Conservative MP's protest against the hiring of a Russian teacher at the University of Saskatchewan has roused the ire of University of Victoria students.

Victoria students passed a resolution in support of the stand by University of Saskatchewan students, who said the protest threatened academic freedom.

Disney Film Re-Issued

Fantasia Provides Painless Culture

By BERT BINNY

Quite one of the most delightful films produced during the last quarter-century has been re-released and is showing all this week at the Atlas Theatre.

Fantasia, made in 1940, is a gem of meticulous co-operation between the Walt Disney Studios and the Philadelphia Orchestra. The commentator is Deems Taylor and his comments are short, clear and right to the point.

All the titanic struggles to bring about the appreciation of "culture" and "good" music in Victoria or Canada or anywhere else will be materially assisted by this picture.

* * *

Where, for instance, the new Victoria School of Music may well create performers, Fantasia bids fair to swell audiences and this is also important.

It avoids pedantry. Above all it approaches its audiences on terms of friendship and equality without the lofty, talking down attitude all too often assumed by the disciples of culture.

Mr. Taylor points out that the pictures accompanying the music — and this particularly applies to Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony and Stravinsky's Rite of Spring — are not the composers' interpretations. Indeed they are not, but the point is that they obviously could be.

Just as the Pastoral Symphony stimulated the imaginations of the Disney artists to produce a thoroughly charming mythological story, so any such music could excite anybody's imagination with equally absorbing results.

In a word, Fantasia liberates "good" music from hidebound traditions. In this respect it is a bold effort but it did enjoy the support of such as Leopold Stokowski, who conducts the orchestra throughout.

For good measure there is a lot of information to be gleaned quite painlessly about all manner of musical instruments, about Greek mythology and even about the evolution of the globe we live on.

But, in spite of all this, Fantasia remains exceptional entertainment; truly suitable for all ages.

An Angry Welcome for a Queen

When Queen Elizabeth arrives in Quebec next Saturday to begin her tour of Canada, she will be protected by a $100,000 armored car and shielded by more than 3,000 police — including a special anti-terrorist squad sent up from Montreal. Why do these elaborate precautions seem necessary to protect the life of the British sovereign? The name of the trouble, according to this week's Saturday Evening Post, is separatisme — the vigorous and passionate movement demanding full independence for Quebec. Pierre Bourgault, leader of the separatist Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale (RIN), has announced plans for a huge demonstration against the Queen as a "foreign sovereign." Prime Minister Lester Bowles Pearson is working hard to find a compromise that will avert any disturbance. What are the odds against him? Why has the movement for independence grown so powerful in Quebec during recent years? What chance is there that an independent Quebec might seek to become a part of the United States? Read "An Angry Welcome for a Queen," a detailed report on the French revolt that threatens Canada, in this week's Saturday Evening Post.

Helps Criminals

Police Chief Attacks 'Brutal Men' Portrayal

Portrayal of police officers as brutal men who hound the public is making it tough for everybody, Chief J. F. Gregory told members of the Victoria Electric Club Tuesday.

Result of such unfair writing was that restrictions were placed on police interrogation and investigation of criminals until they often lost cases on technicalities, he said.

This, in turn, meant that criminals were freed to prey on the public.

★ ★ ★

"Next to war the most serious problem facing our society today is crime. It is a threat to life and property, to peace of mind and I'm afraid it is on the increase."

If the money spent on crime control was devoted to the alleviation of poverty, disease and ignorance we could make a much better way of life for ourselves, he said.

And it was not only the amount of money blood-sucked out of the public by criminals. There was also the staggering cost of administration, of police protection, prosecution, of court and parole.

★ ★ ★

And there was the cost in sorrow and anguish of friends and relatives of criminals and of their victims.

The battle against crime was not a matter for one public agency only. It was a grass-roots problem which could be solved only at the community level with the help of home, church and school. There was no other effective remedy.

The old police philosophy of "throw the man in jail" had been replaced by a new concept in which the policeman tried to keep the man out of jail.

In many fields the policeman, through his training and experience, was better fitted to handle problems than other agencies. These included the areas of mental deficiency, dealing with the very young and the very old, and family relations.

The wide acceptance of the automobile posed new and complex problems for a police department and a large part of police energies were given to enforcement of traffic laws.

"The new attitude toward the teen-ager also makes life a little more difficult for the policeman," he said.

Teen-agers were given greater freedom to act as adults in many families, but without the accompanying responsibility.

The public often did not understand the role of the policeman and this was all the more regrettable when it was understood that the policeman depended so much on public support to do an effective job.

Evans

If He Comes Down With Cold

Keep Junior and His Germs at Home

If Junior gets a streaming cold in the next few months, don't try to be a Spartan parent—keep him home so he won't infect the other children in his class.

Keep him dry and warm and if his nose runs don't worry, for despite the weather of the last two days, that season is upon us again.

But it's not as bad here as it is in many places.

★ ★ ★

Dr. G. P. Evans, deputy medical officer of health, said the incidence of child sickness in Victoria is not high, possibly because of the benevolent climate.

"And, of course, many of the diseases which used to be a danger to children are now relatively rare," he said.

"Among these are diphtheria and scarlet fever. You still get epidemics of chicken-pox but this is not serious and seems to be something every child goes through."

★ ★ ★

One thing parents can do is see that their children get booster shots of Sabin oral vaccine when the campaign resumes Nov. 15.

The anti-poliomyelitis drive is aimed at wiping the disease out and seems to be almost accomplishing just that. There were two cases in the whole Vancouver Island area this year and none in 1963.

The booster shot won't have any immediate effect but it will provide protection when it is most needed—next summer.

If your child does get a common cold or chicken-pox or any other youthful ailment keep him away from other people, Dr. Evans asks.

"Consideration for other people is so important in preventing the spread of these ailments. It is just a matter of common courtesy really."

So if Junior gets a bad cold—keep him home until he's better. Nobody else wants his germs.

YWCA Program

Marriage School Planned

Proposed sponsorship by the YWCA of a school for marriage will be discussed by the YWCA's adult program committee next Wednesday.

Idea of the school was formed when doctors, clergy and other community-minded citizens met some months ago to discuss possible sex education in schools.

At that time it was suggested that there should be a school where newlyweds or those about to be married could get information on the social, economic and medical aspects of marriage.

NON-DENOMINATIONAL

The school will be non-denominational, and co-ordinator will be the Rev. Howard Turpin.

If the committee agrees to accept sponsorship of the school, Mr. Turpin and Miss Lorna Cammaert, YWCA program director, will set up the course.

Dam Site

Crusher To Clear Forests

A gigantic 200-ton tree-crushing machine imported from Quebec will be used to cut costs in clearing the reservoir site of the Peace River dam, Resources Minister Ray Williston announced Tuesday.

The minister said the B.C. Forest Service is bringing in the machine at the end of this month on an experimental basis. The province will pay for 400 working hours plus the cost of transporting the machine from Quebec.

EIGHT FLAT CARS

It will take eight flat cars to transport the mechanical monster.

Mr. Kiernan said the company which owns the machine has guaranteed that it will clear a minimum of 1,200 acres at a cost "substantially" below those for conventional methods.

The 200-ton machine is powered by two 12-cylinder diesel engines and can knock down trees and stumps of 40 inches in diameter. As the trees fall the blade-studded roller crushes and compacts them and buries the residue in soft surface soil.

SLASH REMOVAL

It will be used to provide debris-free navigational channels and shoreline industrial harbor sites.

Similar but smaller machines have been used before. This one, R. G. LeTourneau Tree Crusher, is the largest in existence. The forest services believes it may be practical for slash removal after logging.

* * *

B.C. Aspen To Yield Cattle Feed

Resources Minister Ray Williston said Tuesday that a Montana firm is now studying the pulping qualities of B.C. aspen with a view to manufacturing cellulose-based cattle feed.

* * *

"This is the result," he said, "of a Swedish discovery during the Second World War that cellulose from wood-pulp, enriched with high protein yeast derived from waste liquors of the sulphite pulping process, made a highly nutritious cattle food."

Mr. Williston added: "We in B.C. do some research into wood properties with a view to finding new wood products, but we need much more in both physical and chemical fields."

* * *

B.C. should "lead the world" in the field of wood products research, the minister said.

"I am a great believer in the dictum that we should not try to do everything but rather concentrate on those things wherein we have a natural advantage."

NDP Members Tour Prison

MONTREAL (CP) — Three New Democratic Party members of Parliament made an unheralded inspection visit Tuesday to nearby St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. Estimates of the justice department are up in the House of Commons this week and the three are said to have wanted to see conditions in the penitentiary at first hand.

The U.S. weather satellite, Tiros VII, now has broken the 13-month record of continuous operation; four months is the normal expectation of operability for weather satellites.

Fishermen Demand Medicare

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) said Tuesday British Columbia herring fishermen may strike this year if they don't get a medical plan.

"The men feel keenly about this medical plan and have made it a strike issue," said secretary Homer Stevens.

Seven fishing companies and the union are negotiating a new contract to replace one that expires Oct. 16.

Federation Unions' Merger Advised

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pat O'Neal, secretary of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, suggested Tuesday that Canadian union leaders consider the merger of unions where practicable and profitable.

Dozens of unions in the Canadian Labor Congress have overlapping jurisdiction which leads to "all sorts of problems," he told the B.C. group's annual convention here.

More mergers could be made by a special CLC committee without endangering the traditions and ideals of the labor movement, he said.

He spoke as delegates passed a resolution urging the federation to put new emphasis on organizing workers into unions, particularly in the "white collar" field.

However, Bill Swanson of the Office Employees' Union warned delegates that many white collar, as well as some blue collar, workers are not interested in the trade union movement.

"There has to be an end to stupid jurisdictional disputes because people who are being organized into unions are becoming completely disillusioned and being driven away from the trade union movement," he said.

The federation also called for nationalization of the Canadian Pacific Railway, delegates approving a resolution which said bringing the privately-owned CPR and publicly-owned Canadian National under one government body would cut costs, eliminate duplication and increase service.

Delegates passed a second resolution calling for nationalization of all telephone companies in B.C. Telephone companies are reaping "vast profits" but telephone rates are still rising, said the motion.

A bitter clash in which the Communist party was accused of strike-breaking in a dispute at a Vancouver shipyard erupted at the convention Tuesday.

Russ St. Eloi, president of the federation and business agent of the Plumbers Union, clashed openly on the floor with Bill Stewart, secretary of the Marine Workers and Boilermakers.

St. Eloi said the motion was aimed at his plumbers' union, which refused to return to work at Burrard Drydock Limited when 10 other unions accepted terms to end a three-month strike earlier this year.

"We were billeted by bills from the Communist Party of Canada . . . at our meetings," he said. "It is the first time I have ever seen the Communist party trying to strike-break."

Chest Chief Denies 'Rake-Offs'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Statements by a labor leader about Vancouver's Community Chest campaign were branded Tuesday as "unfounded and untrue" by Dr. Harry L. Purdy, president of the chest.

Pat O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, said Monday that high administrative salaries and "rake-offs" by promoters drained chest funds.

Dr. Purdy said Mr. O'Neal had referred to rakeoffs and high salaries in a wierdly irresponsible fashion.

HURTS CRIPPLED

"The charges are so extravagantly unfounded that I doubt very much if they will affect in any fashion our current United Red Feather-Red Cross appeal."

Dr. Purdy said the labor leader should realize that if his statements do have any adverse effect that it will hurt the crippled, the sick and all the others receiving aid from the two agencies.

E. C. Hurd, chairman of the appeal, said he was shocked that a labor official would attempt to tear down the integrity of 10,000 campaign volunteers.

"I am satisfied the appeal is run efficiently," he said.

Elects Trial by Judge

Jones Continues Chairman Duties

By IAN STREET

George E. P. Jones said late Tuesday he will continue to carry out his duties as chairman of the provincial government purchasing commission in defiance of a cabinet suspension order.

He interrupted a self-imposed vigil, which at that point had lasted 29 hours, to make a brief appearance in Saanich police court at 2 p.m. Tuesday where he elected trial by judge without jury Oct. 15.

After the court hearing, Mr. Jones returned to his office without any hint of official interference. He remained there for the second successive day after government offices closed at 5 p.m.

WINDOWS DARK

By mid-evening, however, windows of the chairman's office in the purchasing commission building on Superior Street were dark and Mr. Jones' car was gone. It was assumed that he had gone home.

Appearing before Magistrate William Ostler Tuesday afternoon he was remanded without plea on charges of receiving unlawful benefits in connection with the purchase of two automobiles.

George K. Hankinson, a former city automobile dealer, who is also charged in connection with the alleged transactions, was remanded until 10 a.m. Oct. 14, for election and plea.

CABINET ORDER

A few hours after Mr. Jones was arrested by RCMP Friday morning the B.C. cabinet met in emergency session to pass the order suspending him as chairman of the commission until disposal of the court case.

Mr. Jones refused to accept the suspension on grounds that the act setting up the purchasing commission makes its three members directly responsible to the legislative assembly.

"I'm striking a blow for liberty," he said Tuesday.

"IMPORTANT FUNCTION"

"The purchasing commission is one of the most important service functions of government. I am trying to ensure that the demands of government are met. I have been exercising my authority as chairman all day (Tuesday)."

Mr. Jones added: "I can say that nothing is running behind either here or in Vancouver."

He said he was concerned primarily with maintaining the integrity of the commission as an "efficient and honest" organization that had been built up over the past 8½ years.

NO STATEMENT

The position taken by authorities Tuesday was that, for the time being at least, no official attempt would be made to stop Mr. Jones' "sit-in" protest.

No one in the government, however, would make any official statement on the situation.

Boy's Leg Broken

A Saanich boy is in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital after being struck by a car late Tuesday afternoon at the corner of Richmond and Carnarvon.

Brent Stevenson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Stevenson, 2910 Queenston, collided with a car driven by Percy C. Glover, of 3502 Cardiff Place, and suffered a broken leg.

Heavy Equipment Involved

Separate Accidents Kill Two on Highway

* * *

By BOB PETHICK

Two people died Tuesday in separate car accidents involving construction equipment on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Dead are Austin Finch, 61, of 3527 Richmond, and Brian Henry, 17, 4991 Prospect Lake Road. Mr. Finch died instantly. Young Henry was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital at 6:35 p.m.

Mr. Finch died when his small car was flattened by a 10-ton gravel truck which tipped at Amity and the highway about 10:10 a.m. A passenger, R. F. Gasson, 419 Davida, crawled out uninjured.

TORN TO SHREDS

Young Henry's car was smashed and torn almost to shreds on the driver's side when a 20-ton loader meeting his car apparently broke a tie rod and went out of control on Patricia Bay Highway near Dieppe.

Both pieces of construction equipment were operated by Mattison and Patterson Construction Company.

Only two weeks ago on Sept. 24, James Gordon Worrall, four, and his grandmother Mrs. Frances Daniel, died in a head-on crash on the highway near Wells Road, a half-mile north of Elk Lake.

DEATH TRAP

The busy two-lane highway has frequently been described as a death trap and the highways department has repeatedly been asked to widen it.

Highways Minister Gaglardi has said the 20-mile road will eventually be widened to four lanes, but has refused to give any target date for the improvement.

Driver of the loader was Barry T. Rushworth, 2545 Graham. The gravel truck in the Finch accident was driven by Lawrence Ogden, 1144 Union.

KEEN SPORTSMAN

Brian Henry was a Grade 10 student and a well-known athlete. He ran for the Mount Newton High School track team and played football and soccer. He was on his way to practice with the Hornets when the accident occurred Tuesday night.

Police found football equipment in the back of his hopelessly smashed car.

He is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Henry, and brothers and sisters, Derek, 10; Gay, 9; Guy, 7, and Saune, 2½.

PARTS FLEW

Jan Fletcher 13, of 4271 Douglas, was in the living room of his home.

"I heard a loader coming. I saw it hit the car but the car was on the side away from the window. I couldn't see too well."

He said there was a crash and parts from the car flew in every direction.

Police believe the six-foot rubber tire of the loader opened up the driver's side of the car.

TOP CUT OFF

In the first fatal crash about 10:10 a.m. Tuesday, the crushed Finch vehicle came to rest in a ditch on the east side of the highway south of Amity Drive under the heavy truck.

Firemen from the Sidney volunteer department, aided by RCMP, were forced to cut the top off the flattened car with a hacksaw to remove Mr. Finch's body. Earlier plans to use a cutting torch were shelved because of the danger of fire from spilled fuel.

Traffic was slowed for nearly three hours as workmen cleared the highway of the vehicles and the gravel spilled from the rolling truck.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre and Sidney RCMP held an inquiry at Sidney into the accident at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The inquiry was adjourned for a doctor's report.

Mr. Finch was an employee of the Pilkington Glass Company of England for 46 years. He came to Canada for the company in 1928 and worked in Montreal, Hamilton and Toronto. From 1945 to 1951 he managed O'Neil Glass and Paint Ltd. in Victoria and returned as managing director in 1961 after five years in Kitchener intending to live here after retirement next year.

He was a member of the St. Beaver Kiwanis Club.

He is survived by his widow, Nora, and two sisters, Millie and Eva Finch, in St. Helens, England.

Funeral arrangements, to be handled by Hayward's, will be announced later.

Russian Women Happy Over Visit

* * *

The leader of a touring delegation of four Russian women said in Victoria Tuesday she would like to see "a frank exchange of thoughts" between the peoples of the Soviet Union and Canada.

Mrs. Z. V. Miranova, a diplomat and former chemical engineer, told a press conference here that she thought it would be "most useful" if both nations learned more of each other's countries and "the real life of the people."

The delegation is in B.C. at the start of a cross-Canada tour as the guests of the Voice of Women. The invitation was issued after VOW delegates toured Russia last summer.

Mrs. Ludmilla Dolinitsyn, a teacher of foreign languages whose husband is attached to the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, said it should be remembered that women make up half of the earth's population.

"Women are a great force," she said. "The feeling that we are sharing the common cause of preserving world peace gives us great hope for the future."

Mrs. Natalia Sladkevich, engineer, economist, researcher and teacher, praised the warmth of B.C.'s welcome and the "atmosphere of mutual trust and friendship" the delegation found both here and in Vancouver.

Mrs. M. M. Bantsekina, a medical doctor, said she found a great interest on the part of everyone she met in Canada in "our life and our children."

Mrs. Miranova told the press conference that in the Soviet Union women enjoy the same rights as men. "This is not a formality," she said, "it is the real thing."

Some 27 per cent of the members of Soviet parliaments including the Supreme Soviet are women. In local councils 40 per cent of members are women.

The working force is about 50 per cent women; in some professions like medicine (75 per cent) and teaching (70 per cent) women far outnumber men.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Mira Yarwood of the local VOW and many members of the organization from Nanaimo and other Island centres attended a luncheon at the Tally-ho travel lodge.

Woolco Offers Soft Music Self Service

The self-service department store has arrived in Victoria, complete with shopping carts and soft music.

The latest merchandising methods will be unwrapped for Greater Victorians Oct. 28 — opening day for the new Woolco Department Store in Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Customers familiar with the famous F. W. Woolworth nickel and dime variety stores will be amazed at this latest division of the international concern.

WIDE VARIETY

Everything from cameras to hardware; auto supplies to appliances; and yardgoods to carpets to clothing for all the family is being offered in the new store.

Woolworth originally opened a variety store at Town and Country in 1961 with 30 employees and a floor space of 14,000 square feet, including warehouses and offices.

They closed the store in June of this year, and when it opens again the new floor space will cover more than 150,000 square feet and the work force will have climbed to 300.

With a selling space of 110,000 square feet, it will be about the largest single-floor store on Vancouver Island.

Store manager R. J. Stookes, who came from a Woolco store in Windsor last month, believes the single-floor aspect is a feature which will be popular with customers.

RECORD BAR

Other selling features are the spacious aisles, the brightly-colored decor, low counters which permit wall-to-wall visibility, and a cafeteria-style snack bar.

Several hundred thousand dollars have gone into display shelves and related equipment, and when the store opens it will be stocked with more than $1,000,000 worth of goods.

The store is not all self-service with the more expensive items being sold by personal service behind the counter. It will be the seventh Woolco store in Canada.

Last Year...

457 in-patients and ex-patients were visited and assisted and 1,090 patients were remembered at Christmas by the Canadian Mental Health Association, who also carried out an extensive educational program. Out of This World

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In my last column I tried to recapture some of the frenzy and madness that swept across Holland in the 17th century—the tulip mania of 1634-37, in which almost every person in the entire country became a gambler, buying and selling futures in hybrid tulip bulbs. This is not hard to understand by anyone who has experienced a Calgary oil boom or a Florida land boom.

The only peculiar thing about Holland's tulip madness is the way the same pattern repeats itself in almost every generation—tulips, gold, oil, seafront property, uranium, or in the case of Ivan Krueger, matches.

A good example of this speculative frenzy is what happened to the solid citizens of Timmins, Ontario, last July when Texas Gulf Sulphur hit a gold-bearing lode.

* * *

Something of the same excitement swept through the bulb-growing districts of Holland shortly after First World War when a plant explorer discovered a new wild tulip growing in the mountains of Samarkand in Central Asia.

The name of the discoverer escapes me, but it was named Tulipa fosteriana, honoring Sir Michael Foster, a physician of Shelford, Cambridge, an amateur gardener who had done some notable work with Irises and tulips.

Foster's tulip was a fantastic flower, and I can well imagine the mounting excitement among the plant breeders of Holland when the first bulbs were grown under cultivation. The leaves alone were enough to get the hybridizers all hot and bothered, for they were enormous things, huge, green and leathery.

Then when the plump flower buds opened there was a blossom a good eight inches across, blooming in a dazzling scarlet shade with a high gloss to the petals, almost like patent leather.

A terrific garden flower in its own right, Foster's tulip from the fabled land of Samarkand was even more valued as a possible parent to a whole new race of tulips.

* * *

To improve this already superb wildflower, the first steps were to isolate the best individuals to use as parents. Hundreds of the wild bulbs were imported, planted and brought into bloom, their significant differences noted, and the best of them grown on to multiply for the market. The original Foster's tulip can be bought today under the name Red Emperor, a vivid scarlet giant with nine-inch blooms selling for about 15 cents per bulb.

The next step was to breed Red Emperor and other selected Foster tulips with the best of the existing tulips in the Cottage, Darwin and Mendel classes. The offspring from these matings are beginning to reach us here in Canada in ever-increasing numbers. Some of them are out of this world.

There is, for instance, Fosteriana princeps, which is identical in every way with Red Emperor except that, instead of 20-inch stems, the flowers are only eight inches tall, ideal for potted bulbs or windswept rock gardens.

White Emperor, known in Europe as Purissima, is a white sport with a yellow base, lasting longer in water than any other known tulip.

The one which has created the greatest stir so far, I think, is Holland's Glory, which has a Darwin tulip for one parent. It is the Darwin blood that fashions the strong 22-inch stem, while the width and shape of the petals are inherited from Fosteriana. The color is scarlet with just a touch of orange.

Another Foster-Darwin hybrid of great beauty is Gudoshnik, peaches and cream on the inside, purple and gold on the outside, standing 27 inches tall on stout, straight stems.

* * *

Roosevelt's Memory is a pure orange flower of gigantic size, while Franklin D. Roosevelt is orange-scarlet with a black and yellow base.

Jewel of Spring is a butter yellow with a thin red margin to each petal, while Zombie is rose on a cream-yellow background and a red-edged black base.

These hybrid bulbs were very expensive when they first came out—I remember paying $1.25 per bulb for Holland's Glory a few years ago, and Roosevelt's Memory is STILL 45 cents each—but prices have been dropping steadily. Most of the above-mentioned kinds can be bought this year for about 15 cents per bulb.

Insurance Man Scares STAN DELAPLANE

Loser Wins—in a Way

The mail is full of brisk commercial notes. Here is a writer's magazine. Full of ads: "You, too, can write!"

"Now is the time to think of Easter stories."

Timing is the thing, says the writer. If you have a Christmas story, write it in July. It's a speedy world, my masters. Stay ahead.

* * *

A great life insurance company would like to get a bet down with me. It must be hard to be an insurance agent. I don't think I could do it.

"We must all face the inevitable," said the gentleman. "The only thing we do not know is when it will come."

"Does it have to come, Insurance Man?" I asked nervously.

The Insurance Man just gave me a sad, sweet smile and got out the actuarial tables. The odds sheet. Oh, oh.

He drew a line from one corner to the other of a square. "Do you know what this represents?"

"What does it represent, Insurance Man? That the square of the two sides is equal to the hypotenuse?"

* * *

"It represents the company's risk. As you see, we start with a tremendous risk."

"What about my risk, Insurance Man? We are talking about the old ticker, not about marbles."

The Insurance Man said some comforting things. Comforting to the heirs but very uncomfortable for me.

He said how would I feel if the dear ones were not provided for?

I said I would feel bad. I already felt bad. I felt awful.

On the other hand, I figured if a smart company like this was willing to bet on me, there was a pretty good chance I would last.

* * *

"And now," said the Insurance Man briskly, "all that remains is to take a physical examination."

"I am as fit as fiddle, Insurance Man. Show me the dotted line."

"Why as to that," he said, "you would not ask the company to take too big a risk. We must have medics thump you and pump you. And sample you this-away and thataway. And then we will take your bet.

"For the point is," said the Insurance Man, "that we like to come out winners. And if we are winners, you are winners—in a way."

"But it seems to me, Insurance Man, that to come out winners, I must also come out losers—in a way."

* * *

"That," said the Insurance Man, "is the beauty part about it."

Well, we write in July for the Christmas trade. And we buy insurance in October for a future day which shall remain nameless.

This is not the way I like things at all, at all.

I would like to write Christmas stories when the snow is on the ground. When the air is full of sleigh bells.

I would like to buy my insurance when I am plucking at the covers.

"I am for the fly-now-pay-later life, Insurance Man," I said. "Put off today whatever you can do tomorrow. Credit is the life of the economy."

* * *

The Insurance Man only smiled. He showed me some tables and figures. Some graphs and charts. He took my cheque and showed me the dotted line.

What a life!

ART BUCHWALD Abets Dirty Work

Spy Finds Haven

ABOARD GOLDWATER TRAIN—I got on the Goldwater Special leaving from Washington, D.C., for a whistle-stop tour of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois. The train was filled with the Candidate, his staff, and 115 mysterious people all of whom claimed to be newspapermen. It was raining and cold and dark and I knew something was going to happen.

* * *

I didn't have to wait long. A knock sounded on my compartment door. I reached for my Olivetti. I opened the door slowly and suddenly I saw her. A beautiful brunette, tall but not too tall, round but not to round, soft but not too soft, rushed in.

"You've got to help me," she cried.

"Name it," I said, helping her into the compartment.

"They're after me," she said.

"Who is?"

"The Goldwater people," she said, shaking in fear.

"Why?" I asked as I poured her out a glass of brandy.

"They think I'm a Democrat," she said. "You see, I was on my way to see my mother in Marietta, Ohio, and I got on the wrong train. Someone has been passing out anti-Goldwater literature and they think it's me."

* * *

Before I could answer, there was a knock on the door.

"What do you want?" I said, reaching for my Olivetti again.

"We're looking for a beautiful brunette," a Goldwater aide shouted.

"What does she look like?" I yelled through the door.

"She's tall, but not too tall, round but not too round, soft but not too soft."

"Sorry, I haven't seen her," I said.

"Who's that in there with you?" someone demanded.

"My sister."

They went away.

The brunette threw her arms around me. "How can I ever thank you?"

I thought and thought, but I couldn't come up with any ideas.

* * *

"You stay here," I told her. "I'm going back to the bar car and find out what's going on. Don't answer the door until you hear three knocks and then say, 'Extremism in the pursuit of liberty,' and I'll reply, 'Is on vice.'"

I went to the bar car where the search for the brunette was going on in earnest.

The Goldwater people were frantic. "No one can leave the train," an aide shouted, "until the suspect is found."

Since we were moving at 60 miles an hour everyone agreed.

* * *

I bought a couple of sandwiches and went back to my compartment. I forgot the password and walked right in. There she was on the floor working a tiny mimeograph machine which kept repeating "In your head you know he's wrong."

"You lied to me," I screamed, grabbing her arm.

"Sure, I lied to you," she snarled. "I'm a Democratic spy and I'm glad I did it."

"I'm going to have to turn you in," I said.

She put her arms around me and whispered in my ear, "Why? In my heart you know I'm right."

I was about to ring for a porter when the thought occurred to me, "What the hell. This is Goldwater's problem."

Beatles Freaks Says Paul Anka

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—"The Beatles are a freak attraction," said another young attraction, Paul Anka, on the telephone. (He was about to fly to Hollywood to discuss a TV pilot with Screen Gems.) Don't get him wrong; he likes The Beatles. "I met them several years ago in Liverpool before they were The Beatles. What is their appeal? The name and the long hair have a lot to do with it. Long hair has always been sexy. Look at Presley. The appeal of singers like myself, and of Fabian and Frankie Avalon and Presley and before that of Sinatra, when we were starting, was to the group between the ages of 16 and 20. The Beatles appeal to kids in the nine to 14 group. Will they last? I think they will. There is always a big market for a freaky attraction." . . . After Hollywood, Paul is off to London, France, Italy and Germany again, to make records in each country.

* * *

Henry Fonda wants to do a stage play with his son, Peter. And it looks like Jim McKenzie's production of The Subject Was Roses. As you may know from the New York hit there are only three characters in the play—mother, father and grown-up son. It would be nice to have a family group, but Henry's girl, Shirlee, is too young to play the role and besides, an actor as good as Henry Fonda never mixes business with pleasure.

* * *

Ursula Andress, the "She" in the British film, sent for her he, husband John Derek. She was feeling lonely between takes, and London with its very attractive men who love to comfort she's of all sizes and shapes, is no place for he to leave a lonely she alone.

* * *

Can you stand another Hamlet? If you can, this one should be among the best—the film version of Maximilian Schell's gloomy Dane will soon be released—a three-hour job, filmed three years ago in Germany.

* * *

Stella Stevens will be flying to London to star with Shirley Jones, Goldfinger girl Honor Blackman and English actor James Booth, in The Secret of My Success for Andrew and Virginia Stone.

* * *

Rod Taylor flew back to Hollywood to catch up with wife Mary and their brand new baby daughter, Felicia, having finally finished Young Cassidy in Ireland. Rod is on the verge of accepting the lead role in Caravans, based on the James Michener book—to be filmed in Pakistan next year. Also a movie on the life of Captain Cook who was killed in Hawaii when the natives realized he was not the god they thought he was. This one will be made in Rod's own Australia.

Grandmother's Pearls For 'Something Old'

Sharleen Gail Ashton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ashton, 399 Fraser Street, Esquimalt, became the bride of Mr. Alec Royal Law, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Law, Fifth Street, Sidney, at a pretty fall wedding in Esquimalt United Church.

Rev. Howard Turpin officiated at the candlelight ceremony. Mrs. R. Parnell was organist and Mrs. Haney, soloist, sang I'll Walk Beside You during the wedding.

The bride's lovely white nylon gown was styled with tiers of rose nylon net, forming a slight train in back, and a fitted bodice featuring lily-point sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her three-tiered bridal veil misted from a halo headpiece of roses and pearls and for "something old" she wore a strand of pearls which belonged to her grandmother, the late Mrs. F. Churchill. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mr. Ashton gave his daughter in marriage.

★ ★ ★

Matron of honor Mrs. R. Holt of Sidney and bridesmaids the Misses Mary Tyson and Marguerite Ashton were gowned alike in sleeveless yellow nylon dresses. Their headpieces were yellow roses and veils en tone and they carried white fan-shaped bouquets of yellow carnations with red centres.

Mr. J. Law was best man for his brother. Mr. W. Buckle, Mr. R. Holt and Mr. Glenn Ashton, bride's brother, ushered.

For the reception, which followed at the Soho Club, the bride's table was centred with a white three-tiered cake made by the bride's mother. Flanking the cake were vases of yellow sweetheart roses. Mr. G. D. Buckle proposed the toast to his niece.

For a honeymoon trip to the B.C. mainland the bride changed to a pink knitted suit and beige top coat. She wore a pink hat and black accessories.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from the woman who was mad at her husband because he started to paint the inside of the house two years ago and hasn't finished the job yet. What is the matter with her? Is she a cripple?

We live on a farm. There are 10 rooms in our house and I painted every one of them. I also painted the outside of the house. I puttied and repaired the broken windows and put a tile floor in the bathroom. If the plumbing goes on the bum I can fix it. This fall I think I'll put in a fireplace.

The baby loves to sit on my lap when I drive the tractor. I can work alongside my husband in the field and he says I'm worth two farm hands any old day.

When I hear women complain because their husbands won't repair things around the house it gets my goat. I'm writing this between milking and egg-gathering. It's 6 a.m. and I've been up since 5. Good morning, Ann! —CORKY

Dear Corky: It may be morning to you, Kiddo, but it's the middle of the night to me. And please turn down the happy voltage. A cheerful woman at 6 a.m. is a traitor to her sex.

Congratulations on your extra set of glands. You can thank your ancestors.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my mother sent away for your booklet, "How to Live with Your Parents." She asked me to read it. Well, I did read it and now I wish you'd write a booklet for parents and call it "How to Live with Your Teen-Ager."

One thing I wish you'd ask parents is this: Why do they always say, "If you are going to smoke please do it in front of us and not behind our backs?" Then when you take them at their word and try to light a cigarette in front of them they just about take your head off.

You could also ask parents to give their teen-agers a chance to tr their side of a story. Parents say what they think, but when the teen-ager tries to present his side he is told not to "talk back."

Thank you for any help you can give us. We need it. — WORLD AGAINST US

Dear World: I have no booklets for parents telling them how to live with their teen-agers, but in one of my books there is a chapter entitled "How Well Do You Know Your Teen-Ager?"

I pointed out that teen-agers have rights and parents who expect consideration and respect must give it. "Because I said so," is not a good enough answer for a child over 12.

It is unfair of parents to tell teen-agers "we'd prefer that you smoke openly rather than behind our backs?" — then raise the roof when they try.

Responsible parents tell their children they may not smoke and why.

Dear Ann Landers: A fellow who works in this office took a girl to a church bazaar. He paid $1 each for this bingo cards. The jumbo jackpot was $200. The girl won. When they dumped the money in front of her she handed the fellow a dollar and said, "Gee, thanks. This must be my lucky night."

He was burned up. The office force has mixed feelings. Was the fellow entitled to all the money, half the money or none of the money? — RESERVING JUDGMENT

Dear Judge: The division of potential winnings should have been settled in advance. A good arrangement would have been a 50-50 split in the event either of them won.

If that greedy girl cared for the fellow she lost a great deal more than she won.

25 Years

Birthday Marked By Junior League

Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League marked its first meeting, held Oct. 4, 1939, with a 25th anniversary celebration recently in the Blue Room. A birthday cake complete with 25 candles, was cut in honor of the occasion and on hand for the celebration were life members Mrs. Nona Damaske and Mrs. Flora Frankland.

During the business meeting reports were read on the Western Canadian Open Water Ski championships, which netted the league the sum of $370.73, and the 1964 Shower of Dimes, netting the sum of $13,651.52.

Four prospective members at the meeting were Mrs. M. Thomas, Mrs. M. Grant, Mrs. M. Youngman and Mrs. N. Moren.

The Solarium Junior League is looking for new members to fill the few vacancies in their membership. Women between the ages of 18 and 40 years who are interested are asked to phone Mrs. H. Hutson, membership chairman, at EV 5-3909 in the evening.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Seems to me it's an indication of the lack of quality on television when a Bonanza cast change is considered more important than an incident of censorship—and anyone will agree most viewers would be more interested in the former.

"Since we got the color set I haven't once dreamed in black and white."

Bonanza's producers have decided Pernell (Adam) Roberts can have his wish and will leave the show. Next February he'll get into a gunfight and be shot down, and fan mail will determine whether the Cartwrights will get a boarder instead.

The censorship? A two-part show which was to have started on Mr. Novak and ended on Dr. Kildare was killed by the NBC censor. The subject was venereal disease.

The top 10 in the first U.S. network ratings of the season were, in order, Ed Sullivan, Bonanza, Bewitched, Dick Van Dyke, Andy Griffith, Red Skelton, Favorite Martian, Lucy, Fugitive and the Munsters, with Peyton Place 11th and Burke's Law 50th and last. The 10 leaders include seven CBS, two ABC and one NBC shows.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Looking at all four hands, can you figure out any conceivable swindle to make the slam contract on this deal, after dummy has won the opening lead with the diamond queen? If you can, you are a very imaginative player—as was the actual declarer.

South was Tom Griffin, one of New York City's younger Life Masters. In partnership with his wife, he seemed to face a hopeless job when, neglecting Blackwood formalities, he reached slam missing two aces. Four diamonds was an attempt to mark time, but, reading it as a genuine suit, his partner carried him beyond range of four no trump. East's double of five diamonds was no cause for despondency, as it seemed to indicate that any missing diamond honor was well placed. South therefore shot the slam.

Opening lead: Diamond five

When West led a diamond, dummy put up the queen, trying to persuade East to cover, but East allowed it to hold, and declarer made the key play of dropping the jack. Placing East with most of the high cards, declarer saw no future in trying to sneak a club or heart trick by a lead toward dummy. Instead, he tried the unusual play of a small club away from dummy's king. East could hardly be blamed for placing South with the queen, and he clambered up with the ace.

In East's position, would you do the right thing now? East could suspect skullduggery, but had no way of knowing the right counter. Remembering South's four diamond bid, he decided that West's opening lead could well have been a singleton, so he returned a diamond. Declarer played low with his carefully preserved eight, dummy won, and South's losing heart went away on the club king.

Color Election Red, Blue —And Rainbow

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — One certainty exists in any early sketch of the United States election campaign: Color the cost red.

Add a touch of blue for the Republican party, normally the well-heeled combatants but now tinged with green for the success the Democrats appear to be having.

The Democrats? Color them rainbow. They own the pot of gold this time.

BIG HARVEST

Reports required by American law — and the loopholes make these reports a mere hint—show that the Democratic party since January has collared $3,300,000 from various sources.

The same reports show that the Republicans have scratched together $2,700,000. But it is estimated in some quarters that the actual Democratic party harvest so far over and under the table has been closer to $7,000,000.

TOO MUCH TO SPEND?

Both parties will grab every cent they can, although there is some talk at this stage that the Democrats actually will wind up with a surplus.

That may be impossible, however, because it is assumed that the cost of politicking nationally in the Nov. 3 campaign will exceed $25,000,000.

The tab for nominating conventions, members of Congress campaigns, governors and other regional contests will be an estimated $100,000,000 or more.

This is based on 1960 cost estimates, although nobody will ever come up with a firm figure.

The Republicans want $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 nationally in 1964 and the Democrats have set a target of $15,000,000.

There are sound reasons why an abnormal turn of events puts the Republicans in trouble financially.

The Democrats enjoy the advantage of any government that seeks re-election with a reasonably good record. Contributors of political funds like a winner and as one Republican said: "It's always hard for a party out of power to collect money with the polls against you."

To date, the polls certainly have been against Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater. Moreover, in the heavy flow of shifting allegiance which specially marks this campaign, numbers of prominent businessmen normally Republican have lined up with President Johnson.

He has missed few opportunities to encourage that trend, to augment normal sources of Democratic party support which usually have been smaller if more abundant contributors.

The unparallelled Democratic party position is represented in the fact that it faced its $1,000,000 nominating convention last August with a reported $5,000,000 in the bank.

FACED DEFICITS

This contrasts with the deficit that former president Harry Truman inherited from Franklin Roosevelt and which Adlai Stevenson worked without success to erase between the 1952 and 1956 campaigns.

That was the era when the Republicans had the fat cats. In 1956, for example, $100-a-plate dinners across the country were linked by closed-circuit television. That raised $4,000,000 as a "salute to Eisenhower."

But Richard Nixon's whisker-thin loss to John F. Kennedy in 1960 left the Republicans $750,000 in debt.

Under law, no political committee can raise more than $3,000,000. The solution is simple—the creation of more committees, with the proceeds allocated on the national and regional level.

It takes a lot to stoke the campaign boilers.

The Republicans, leaning heavily on the superior Goldwater television rating, have budgeted $4,600,000. The Democrats may use less TV because Johnson has his weaknesses in that medium.

The Goldwater campaign plane costs $280,000 for the proposed 75,000-mile campaign. But in an innovation, the Republicans nailed all press passengers for tickets in advance, which some have calculated will cut the actual cost to about $70,000.

POLLS ARE COSTLY

The public opinion poll costs plenty and it is reported that the late president Kennedy spent $1,000,000 on that alone in 1959-60. Politicians like Senator Goldwater or President Truman in 1948, running as underdogs, tend to brush aside the reliability of the polls but few politicians operate today without them.

More and more they are being used not only as indicators of popularity but as detectors of regional trends or spotters of key issues.

In today's American politics, it has been deplored, the rich man has it all his own way.

It is the candidate at any level who has to pay his own way until he actually is nominated—then the party steps in.

Thus, in 1960, President Johnson is said to have spent $250,000 in a vain bid to beat Kennedy for the nomination, and it is estimated Kennedy spent $250,000 on polls alone up to that point.

Senator Hubert Humphrey, the present vice-presidential candidate, banged heads with Kennedy briefly in seeking the 1960 nomination, spent $250,000 he didn't have and retired.

Port Renfrew Man Holding Coho Lead

Still leader in the King Fisherman contest coho division is Maurice Tremblay of Port Renfrew with a 20:15-pounder caught in San Juan Bay on a Cowichan spinner.

As a Colonist subscriber he is in line to win both the King Fisherman trophy and the three-horsepower outboard motor awarded by T. Eaton Co. for the subscriber with the heaviest coho.

But, with fair runs of big coho reported all up and down the east coast of the Island from Saanich Inlet to Kelsey Bay his lead may not hold until the contest closes Oct. 31.

Railway Could Cost $1,000,000,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian north eventually will become self-supporting but only after millions of dollars is poured in with very little return, Northern Affairs Minister Laing said here.

Canadian National Railways was making a survey for the federal government on the possibility of building a railway, which probably would run from Skagway, Alaska, to the Snake River in the Yukon, he said.

It would cost $1,000,000,000 and would be used principally to carry iron ore from a mine which has estimated reserves of about 22,000,000,000 tons of ore, he told a Liberal meeting.

Mr. Laing said he doesn't know where Premier Bennett is going to get the $300,000,000 which he says he will spend on rail and road development in the north if the Yukon joins B.C.

One Interview Decided Job Says Passmore

Saanich Coun. Leslie Passmore charged Tuesday that only one man was ever interviewed by council for the fire chief's job.

Yet there were more than 50 applications for the job, according to the veteran councillor.

A consulting firm which took part in the selection of a new chief recommended several men as being eligible for the job, Coun. Passmore said, and then advised council to interview the recommended candidates.

"But Joe Sutherland was the only one interviewed by council. It took about 15 minutes and less than two hours later he was hired."

NOT CONSIDERED

Coun. Passmore complained that Saanich firemen were never consulted or considered for the job.

"If our men were doing a good job, council should have given them an opportunity for the promotion. It's most unfair."

At Monday's council meeting, Coun. Passmore introduced a motion appointing a special three-man committee to study the appointment of the fire chief and act as a liaison between council and the fire department.

The motion, naming Coun. Harold Todd as chairman and Couns. Gregory Cook and Doug Crosby as members of the special committee, was unanimously approved.

But acting reeve Joe Casey imposed a 30-day delay preventing the committee from starting its inquiry until after the Oct. 24 byelection.

A spokesman for the Saanich local of the International Association of Fire Fighters said the union is "very pleased" with the committee's appointment.

NO MALICE

He said the union holds no malice towards Chief Sutherland but insists the job should go to a local fireman.

The spokesman agreed with Coun. Passmore's statements that the department morale is low and also agreed the firemen were unhappy with the examination procedure used in selecting the chief.

Coun. Passmore earlier said local firemen were forced to write supervised exams within a certain time period while the outsiders were permitted to take the exams home.

WHAT'S GOING ON

The councillor also said he had "nothing against" Chief Sutherland.

"But we can't determine whether a good job is being done or even what's going on in the fire department," he said.

Apart from investigating the chief's appointment, the committee also will hold regular meetings with the firemen.

Glacier Opening Way For North B.C. Port

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)— A receding glacier in the Alaskan Panhandle on the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia has given rise to the possibility of establishing a seaport 1,000 miles northwest of Vancouver.

The area is Tarr Inlet at the northern end of Glacier Bay in the extreme northwest corner of British Columbia. RCAF aerial photos taken from 1950 to 1955 show that Grand Pacific Glacier has retreated inside the B.C. boundary, giving B.C. a possible beachhead for a seaport.

Yukon engineers who flew over the area during the weekend said there appeared to be sufficient area available for development of a port in B.C. territory.

The beach area consists of boulders and gravel carried to the inlet by a stream beside the glacier. Soundings showed water depth of 150 feet a few yards from shore.

There was excitement here about the possibility of a 200-mile road to sea as a tourist route through glaciers and mountains.

Prospector Pete Versluce of Whitehorse now is walking the route to get detailed information.

NO LAND ACCESS

Leo Proctor of Whitehorse, a lumberman and roadbuilder, reported that the retreat of the glacier has left three miles of the inlet in B.C. territory.

Canada's most northerly west coast seaport is Prince Rupert, 500 miles northwest of Vancouver. It has no access by land to areas farther north.

At present goods shipped to the Yukon and northern B.C. must go by truck over the Alaska Highway or seek rail access through the U.S. port of Skagway.

Tarr Inlet was named after a U.S. glacierologist who studied the area 85 years ago.

Fund for Family Starts with $200

More than $200 has been donated to the fund for the Gordon Harding family which lost all its possessions in a fire at its home at 1899 Foul Bay, Monday.

Damage to the two-storey house is estimated at $6,000. It is insured, but no value has been placed on the contents, which were all lost.

The fire caused the death of the Harding's three-year-old daughter Teresa.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Squires of 2029 Goldsmith immediately started a fund for the Hardings, and there was a quick response.

More than enough clothing has been received, and the fund organizers are having to refuse further donations, but furniture, kitchenware and single mattresses are needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding and their six sons are now living at 1932 Brighton in a house found for them by the St. Vincent de Paul Society which is paying the rent and has also made a cash donation to the family.

Even as the Harding fund is being subscribed to, the Community Chest organization is setting up a temporary referral service to help in assisting stricken families.

Appeal Gains Ground

United Appeal has collected nearly 20 per cent of its $410,000 objective.

So far $80,386.03 has been collected, actually 19.6 per cent of the total required.

Of this, $5,100 came in Tuesday.

The residential campaign is in full swing, a United Appeal official said, but returns have not yet started to come in.

SASKATOON (CP) — A suggestion that Canada consider taking in the Bahamas as an 11th province was made today at the Canadian Tourist Association convention by W. K. Kiernan, British Columbia's new minister of recreation and conservation.

If the Bahamas could be convinced to join Canada the benefits would be beyond calculation, he said.

"It would give us a semi-tropical province and would also complete the circle as far as terrain, climate and topography are concerned," he said. "The benefits to the tourist industry would be of everlasting benefit."

Mr. Kiernan also touched on British Columbia's proposal that the Yukon become part of that province.

"We feel we would both benefit by it," he said. "I am sure it will be seriously considered."

Huge Barge Nearly Done

The largest steel barge ever built in B.C. will be launched at Yarrows Ltd. at 4:30 p.m. Oct. 15.

Mrs. Williston, wife of Lands and Forests minister Ray Williston, will sponsor the barge, being built for Straits Towing Limited of Vancouver at a cost of $1,500,000.

The 371-foot barge will have a log-carrying capacity of 9,400 long tons or 2,000,000 board feet. Its breadth is 76 feet, its depth 23 feet, 6 inches.

Arena Lot to Block Outcry on Parking

A public outcry was anticipated if Cormorant Street between Douglas and Blanshard was closed and all parking spaces reserved for the use of city hall employees.

For that reason aldermen decided against the plan and workers at the new city hall will be required to walk from a parking lot on the Memorial Arena property. Aldermen will have space at the rear of the Mc and Mc building on Government.

FOLLOWING MOVE

These tentative arrangements will apply after the move is made, near the end of the month, from the temporary city hall on Bastion Street to the new civic complex in Centennial Square.

The alternative plan, to make use of Cormorant Street, was considered by aldermen at a committee meeting on Tuesday.

"I think the public would be broadminded enough to allow city workers to use the street," said City Manager Dennis Young.

FACILITY LATER

"Well I certainly don't," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. "I think there would be a scream."

The parking situation for city hall employees will be eased when the new parking facility is completed on Fisgard Street as part of the Centennial Square project. At that time, probably, part of the facility will be reserved.

Boy's Cut Clue For Police

A small boy with a cut finger led Esquimalt police to a group of youngsters who ransacked a house Tuesday afternoon.

Four boys, aged six and seven, did considerable damage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Boyd of 475 Lampson.

Mrs. Boyd left her home at 2:20 p.m. and when she returned at 4:30 p.m., three ground floor windows had been broken, lamps and TV fixtures smashed and drawers ransacked.

FOLLOWED TRAIL

One boy apparently cut his finger in the course of the ransacking. Police, following a trail of articles from the house to the school grounds, saw a boy sucking an injured finger, questioned him and discovered the names of his three companions in the affair.

Japanese Eye Island Mine

A 22-member Japanese economic mission which will arrive in Victoria Thursday for trade talks with senior B.C. government officials has announced plans to develop a copper mine property in northern Vancouver Island.

The Japanese said Mitsubishi Heavy Industries Ltd. and Yreka Mines, a subsidiary of Noranda Mines, will develop the property jointly but did not give its location.

Reports said a 300-ton mill is planned and the Japanese have agreed to import $1,800,000 worth of the high grade ore.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Mitsubishi has applied for validation of the deal by the Japanese government, required under Japanese foreign exchange regulations.

The Japanese, who now are in Vancouver and also plan stops in Calgary and Ottawa, include representatives of the car, steel, electrical, construction and farm industries and of trading firms and financial institutions, as well as government advisers.

Queen Smiles, Loves Funny, Risque Show

CHARLOTTETOWN (UPI)—A bejeweled and glamorous Queen Elizabeth Tuesday night was given a taste of Canada on stage in a Royal Variety Program that was sometimes funny, often risque and always Canadian.

The cream of Charlottetown society, in long dresses, black and white tie and bemedalled uniforms, gathered in the 1,200-seat theatre of the new $6,000,000 Fathers of Confederation complex to watch Canadian artists—and to see the Queen.

Outside, an estimated 3,000 people watched the Queen go in and waited for more than two hours for her to come out again, to catch a second glimpse of the flowing evening gown and jewels of the 38-year-old monarch whose warm smile and friendly wave has belied any concern she may have for her personal safety.

★ ★ ★

Security measures remained strict, however, with guards speckling the memorial area, and each of the 1,200 guests checked off against a master list as they arrived in the red-carpeted main foyer of the new theatre.

Backstage after the show, both the Queen and Prince Philip praised the actors.

"It's the first time I've seen you so dressed up," she said to master of ceremonies Lorne Greene. The Queen told him that she watched Bonanza "with the children every Sunday."

★ ★ ★

Queen Elizabeth told Anna Russell that she knew the song that had required the audience to go oink, oink during the show, "and I can make those noises at home, but I can't do it with the press around."

The Queen and Prince Philip, sitting in the balcony above the main theatre section, appeared to enjoy the performance that ranged from the stylistic impressionistic dancing of Les Feux-Follets of Montreal to the sharp jabs of comedian Dave Broadfoot of Vancouver.

Queen Smiles

Philip Chuckles at 'Compromise'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The royal visit got mixed up with the great Canadian Flag debate for one hilarious minute here Tuesday as the Queen and Prince Philip viewed Jack Shadbolt's controversial flag mural.

The incident occurred during a tour of the art gallery in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre.

The Queen and her husband, accompanied by Prime Minister Pearson, rounded a corner in a long corridor.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly they were confronted with the Vancouver artist's huge mural—a composite of hundreds of flag designs.

The Queen smiled and did not commit herself, but Prince Philip with characteristic informality, burst into a loud chuckle which reverberated up and down the hallway.

"That's compromise for you", he said with a broad grin towards the prime minister.

★ ★ ★

A chuckling Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island chimed in with "Yes, this may be the answer to all our problems."

Soon everybody in the official party was laughing.

The general hilarity was missed by a large group of photographers and newspaper men who were trailing the

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—If the 7,500 student body at Quebec City's French-speaking Laval University cannot demonstrate publicly against the Queen's arrival here, then the second best thing they can do is make fun of her.

A student will portray the Queen, while others will portray Prince Philip, the Fathers of Confederation and other dignitaries.

Nanaimo Murder Hearing

Gun-Bullet Link Sought

By LYNNE WALKER

NANAIMO—Police witnesses paraded to the stand Tuesday in Nanaimo courthouse as the Crown attempted to link the bullets that killed Leslie Dixon and Diane Phipps to a rifle said to belong to Ronald Ingram.

The 35-year-old former Nanaimo resident's preliminary hearing on charges of capital murder in the 1962 slayings ended its second day before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts with 15 more witnesses for a total of 39.

★ ★ ★

The hearing may end today after four more witnesses testify.

One of the police witnesses collapsed Tuesday morning but returned in the afternoon. And a Monday witness, young Jordan River logger James Hoggan, said "Yes, sir" when asked if he had "deliberately perjured himself" on one aspect of the case.

Retired RCMP officer Don Colquhoun, who was stationed in Nanaimo at the time of the murders, testified he found two empty shell cases in the car in which young Dixon's body was found.

Cpl. S. J. Kirby, ballistics expert from the RCMP crime laboratory in Regina, said these cases had positively been fired in the .22 calibre rifle entered as evidence Monday.

Ingram's adopted daughter testified Monday that Ingram bought the rifle at a 1955 auction in Kamloops.

Cpl. Kirby testified two of the three bullets taken from the heads of the murder victims could have come and probably were from the same rifle. The third was so badly damaged it was impossible to say.

CLOSE RANGE

The ballistics expert also said the bullets which killed young Dixon were fired at a range of less than half an inch. Court was told earlier he was shot in the back of the head.

Const. Dan Creally of Nanaimo said he found two rounds of .22 ammunition in a search of Ingram's North Vancouver home Aug. 7 of this year.

BAKERY FIND

Const. D. F. Haggerty, who collapsed on the stand in the morning, was assisted from the court but recovered and returned in the afternoon to complete his testimony.

Prince's Criticism May Bring Exile

ATHENS (UPI) — The pro-government newspaper Eleftheria said Tuesday Prince Peter of Greece may be exiled because of his public criticism of Queen Mother Frederika.

Official government circles neither confirmed nor denied the report.

Peter has asked for an audience with King Constantine, now honeymooning on the Island of Spetsopoula with Queen Anne-Marie, and has promised not to make any more statements before a meeting.

The newspaper said he may be asked to leave the country before he has a chance to tell the king any details of his charges that Frederika caused dissension among the royal family.

The Greek nation waited anxiously for the next disclosures in the royal storm. The story was ignored by the government-controlled radio but made headlines in Monday afternoon's and Tuesday's newspapers.

Sources said Peter's Sunday press conference—which was denounced by the government as "improper toward the Queen Mother and harmful to the nation"—was the last step in a series of moves made to iron out family differences.

Against Japan

U.S. WAS READY TO RELEASE GAS

British Feared Nazi Retaliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was ready to use poison gas against the Japanese late in the Second World War, a report attributed to the late Gen. George C. Marshall declared Tuesday:

The report said the plan was dropped chiefly because of opposition from the British who feared it might touch off a German gas attack on England.

Marshall, wartime U.S. Army chief of staff, is so quoted by David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Lilienthal says Marshall made the disclosure to him and several other atomic officials in June, 1947, when the general was secretary of state.

FORBIDDEN

Lilienthal said Marshall made "no mention of the fact that international law forbade its (poison gas) use."

The account appeared Monday in a new book, The Journals of David E. Lilienthal: The Atomic Energy Years 1945-1950 (Harper and Row).

PLANS SERIES

In the book—one of a contemplated series designed to cover 46 years of the public and private life of the oftentimes controversial government official — Lilienthal also reports that:

1. Even before the push to develop the hydrogen bomb was begun, the United States had firm prospects of developing enough A-bombs within two years that "we could blow a hole clean through the earth"—to quote words Lilienthal attributed to President Harry Truman after the AEC had

Bennett Hits Japan Trail

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett Tuesday announced he and some of his cabinet will make an industrial tour of Japan next year.

The premier, who has never visited Japan, made the announcement in accepting an invitation from Yoshihiro Inayama, leader of a 23-man economic mission which began a 25-day Canadian visit Monday.

Japan is British Columbia's second largest customer for export goods, behind the United States.

In accepting the invitation, Mr. Bennett said: "We are not in favor of trade restrictions and we want to find out how we can buy more goods from Japan."

Mr. Inayama, who heads the world's fourth largest steel industry, described Mr. Bennett as "one of the leaders in working for greater Japanese-Canadian trade."

He also supported a recent suggestion by Canadian External Affairs Minister Paul Martin for a North Pacific triangle between Canada, the U.S. and Japan. "These three nations have much in common."

Bennett to Laing: 'Keep Hands Out'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Message to Federal Resources Minister Laing from Premier Bennett: Keep your cotton-picking hands out of British Columbia's affairs.

At a press conference Tuesday, Mr. Bennett had been asked to comment on Mr. Laing's statement that provincial policy is hindering the exploration of offshore minerals.

"As long as I'm premier, companies will have to pay a fair amount for developing these resources which belong to all the people," Mr. Bennett said. "If he would keep his cotton-picking hands out of it (British Columbia) we would be very happy."

Police Charge 'Friendly' Mob

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)—A mob of 3,000 Peronist demonstrators closed around a car carrying President Charles de Gaulle of France and President Arturo Illia of Argentina Tuesday and broke up their motorcade.

Sixteen persons were wounded in the rock-and-gun battle that followed as police charged at the crowd.

The wives of the two presidents, together in another car, were in peril for a time.

AGAINST ILLIA

The 74-year-old de Gaulle, target of assassins on previous occasions in Europe, was untouched in the incident provoked by demonstrators apparently friendly to him but hostile to Illia.

Illia suffered a cut hand from broken glass of the presidential car. He said later that the incidents were the "consequence of twisted thinking."

Police, using tear gas bombs, drove an opening in the mob and the car sped on the short distance remaining to a farewell luncheon that closed de Gaulle's four-day visit to Argentina.

Tshombe Fails At Cairo

CAIRO (CP)—The Congo's Premier Moise Tshombe abandoned Tuesday night his attempt to crash the conference of non-aligned powers after being told he would not be accepted.

From a suburban palace where he had been kept under virtual house arrest through the day, Tshombe announced he would leave immediately for The Congo.

Among the most frequently mentioned reasons for Tshombe's exclusion were his uses of white mercenaries in combat while he was trying to secede from The Congo as president of the rich province of Katanga and again since he has become premier at Leopoldville.

Canada Provoked

Duties in Cyprus

Always Toughest Jobs!

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is becoming more and more provoked that the Canadian contingent in the United Nations force in Cyprus is continuing to be handed most of the force's dirty jobs, informed sources said Tuesday.

But there is nothing official the government can do about it because the 1,130-man Canadian contingent is under UN command.

Moreover, any formal action in this regard might appear to the other contributing nations as political jockeying for a preferred position in the force, informants said.

★ ★ ★

One of the chief causes of the present problem, in Canadian eyes, is that Canadian troops have been so efficient in UN peacekeeping operations that they almost automatically draw the toughest assignments.

External Affairs Minister Martin has been dropping hints —hoping they will reach the ears of the UN command—that the various tasks of the UN force in Cyprus should be rotated among the six national contingents. The other major units come from Britain, Ireland, Denmark, Sweden and Finland.

Sources said the government believes the Canadians have had long enough the nerve-wracking job of policing the 16-mile highway from Nicosia to Kyrenia.

★ ★ ★

The situation along the highway threatens to flare up again. The 650-man Turkish army contingent in Cyprus, on the island by the 1960 independence treaty, straddles the road.

The government here is said to feel that a less onerous task for the Canadians, at least temporarily, would boost morale.

Fear of Yukon

'North Island Must Not Be Forgotten'

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—Hopes and plans for northern Vancouver Island were voiced by the people of all the communities which put out the welcome mat for members of a pioneering bus tour Sunday and Monday.

Three dozen Alberni area, Courtenay and Campbell River residents made the trip, arranged by Fred Duncan of the Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce, in the first Island Coach Lines bus to reach Port Hardy.

Possibly the most significant stop was at the head of Rupert Inlet, south of Port Hardy, where a headquarters may be built for a regional planning body for the area.

There are an estimated 15,000 people in the region north of Kelsey Bay, and with 900 at Port Hardy and 450 at Coal Harbour, the Rupert Inlet site has been proposed as central to most of the settlements.

The bus left Port Alberni at 8 a.m. Sunday and arrived in Port Hardy at 6:15 p.m., travelling over a network of limited-access logging roads opened to the public earlier this year.

Mountain Panorama

Going 191 miles beyond Campbell River, the party went west to within seven miles of Gold River and then turned north.

Along this route were breathtaking views of 37-mile-long Upper Campbell Lake, a panorama of mountaintops, miles of forests and the Elk and Heber rivers and other picturesque streams and lakes.

After leaving the Elk Timber Co.'s excellent logging road, the bus went through Tahsis Co. territory along Gold River and Muchalat Lake.

The travellers then followed the Otkwanch River through Canadian Forest Products' holdings and stopped at that company's Vernon Lake camp, where Ole Jernberg was host at a loggers' lunch.

The route goes on through the Nimpkish Valley, along Bonanza Lake—storage ground for Crown Zellerbach—and through the Kokish Valley to Beaver Cove.

Chamber of Commerce president Frank Hole headed the welcoming group at the Port Hardy airport.

Chamber member Ed Wilson expressed the fear the government will forget the north Island if the suggested annexation of the Yukon is allowed to go too far.

"We must see the road to the north end built before the Yukon is annexed," he said.

More Direct Route

Other Port Hardy people stressed that the area pins its hopes to a more direct route than that offered by the logging roads.

Earlier reports told how Island Coach Lines manager David Jones of Nanaimo said the company hopes to inaugurate a regular Port Hardy service soon and serve all of the Island eventually.

They also related tours Monday of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River holdings in the area, and of Rayonier Canada Ltd.'s Hallgren Park on Marble River, where picnic and camping sites are being provided for public use.

There was also a visit to the only Canadian whaling station, the Western Canada Whaling Co. installation at Coal Harbor.

On the return journey, Rayonier officials showed the visitors their Port McNeill subdivision, which has sewer and water services and offers lots for $700 to employees and $1,300 to outsiders.

Many homes have been built, and an inter-denominational church has been put up by volunteer labor as still another north Island community begins to boom.

Council Cleric Speaks Today

Rev. Lewis Maclachlan, author and member of the British Council of Churches Interchange Committee will speak in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Wednesday, 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday and 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. Friday.

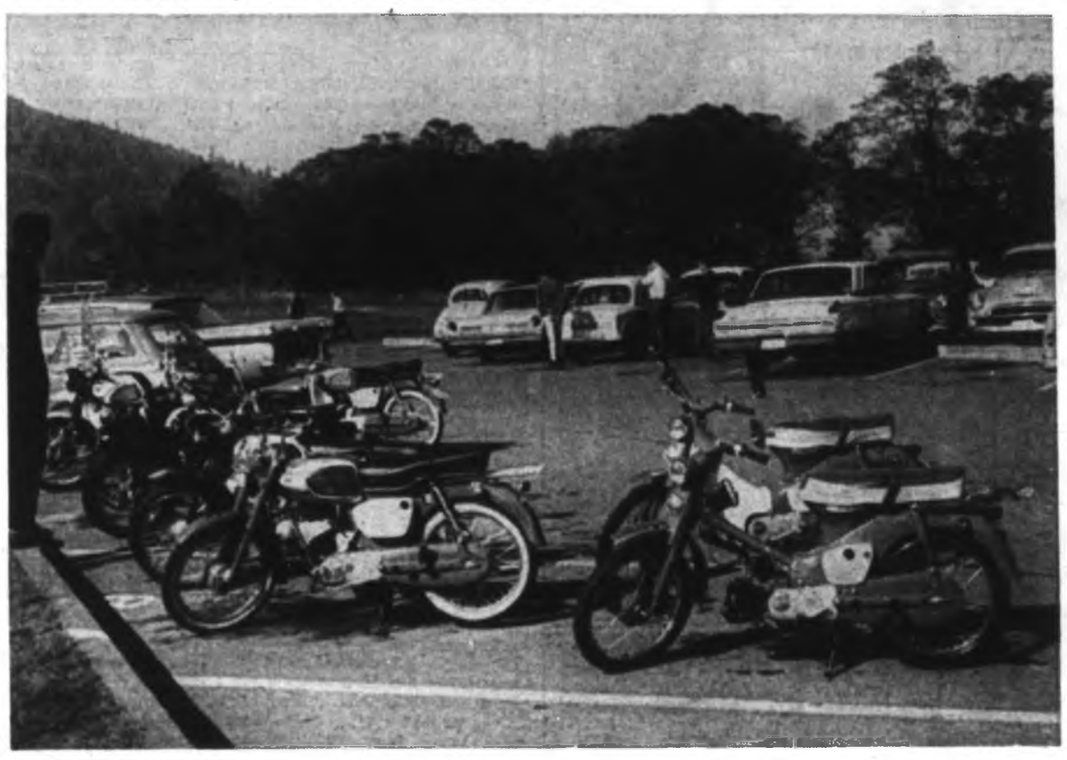

One Skate for Two

Sixty-pound skate was caught by David Johnson, 12, right, of 240 St. George in Nanaimo and brother Ricky. They used hand line with herring bait off wharf by Anchorage Marina. Father Earl Johnson caught skate in lobster trap in Newcastle Channel last spring.—(Les Englefield)

Vote Sought On Fluorides

NORTH COWICHAN—A delegation of North Cowichan citizens will ask the weekly municipal council meeting today to authorize a vote on fluoridation, it was learned Tuesday.

The group will ask for a vote in the municipality's four water districts—Chemainus, Crofton, Maple Bay and the environs of Duncan—at the same time as the annual December elections.

Appeal Boosted By Mac-Powell

More Island News, Page 28

NANAIMO—The Nanaimo and District United Appeal campaign took a big jump Tuesday with the annual large donation from employees of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

Don Adair, on behalf of the employees, presented Harmac paymaster Ralph McColl, who is an Appeal director, with a cheque for $6,400, an increase of 16 per cent over the payroll deduction total from the pulp mill last year.

ONE-QUARTER

The campaign stands at $15,744, or more than one-quarter of the $59,332 goal.

Further help will come when commercial blitz chairman Haig Burns announces soon how much was obtained from 200 downtown businesses by his 22 canvassers in a two-hour drive Wednesday morning.

Praise for the Mac-Powell staff gift came from payroll contribution division chairman Victor Jones, who said:

CO-OPERATION

"This is an example of the outstanding success than can be achieved through the co-operation of management by assiating the Appeal in introducing payroll deduction.

"The employees are . . . playing a very sincere and important part in assisting those in need in our community.

"The Appeal . . . hopes the same type of effort will be demonstrated by other industry and business organizations."

OFFER SERVICES

Meanwhile, DeMolay and Young Christian Students members have offered their services to the Red Cross as canvassers for the residential blitz, Oct. 26 and 27.

Their help, Red Cross officials say, has brought the group close to its canvasser quota.

Self-Service Store Offers Soft Music, Latest Merchandising

The self-service department store has arrived in Victoria, complete with shopping carts and soft music.

The latest merchandising methods will be unwrapped for Greater Victorians Oct. 28—opening day for the new Woolco Department Store in Town and Country Shopping Centre.

Customers familiar with the famous F. W. Woolworth nickel and dime variety stores will be amazed at this latest division of the international concern.

WIDE VARIETY

Everything from cameras to hardware; auto supplies to appliances; and yardgoods to carpets to clothing for all the family is being offered in the new store.

Woolworth originally opened a variety store at Town and Country in 1961 with 30 employees and a floor space of 14,000 square feet, including warehouses and offices.

They closed the store in June of this year, and when it opens again the new floor space will cover more than 150,000 square feet and the work force will have climbed to 300.

With a selling space of 110,000 square feet, it will be about the largest single-floor store on Vancouver Island.

Store manager R. J. Stookes, who came from a Woolco store in Windsor last month, believes the single-floor aspect is a feature which will be popular with customers.

It means no escalators or elevators to ride, and leaves a layout of goods in 63 departments.

RECORD BAR

Other selling features are the spacious aisles, the brightly-colored decor, low counters which permit wall-to-wall visibility, and a cafeteria-style snack bar.

A large record bar (well-stocked with Beatle records) and an all-inclusive camera department are also included in the store, along with a pharmacy and a garage to change tires or oil.

PERSONAL SERVICE

Several hundred thousand dollars have gone into display shelves and related equipment, and when the store opens it will be stocked with more than $1,000,000 worth of goods.

The store is not all self-service with the more expensive items being sold by personal service behind the counter. It will be the seventh Woolco store in Canada.

Agreement Nears On Sunday Sports

NANAIMO—City council and the city recreation commission have agreed with the request of United Church women that organized sport should not start before 1:30 p.m. Sundays. But the three groups agreed at a meeting Monday co-operation will achieve more than legislation.

Council and the commission also discussed the arena and learned the city doesn't plan to sell the property. Rather than build a new arena, the present structure must be renovated.

Stranded Seiner Refloated

A $60,000 seiner ran aground on Race Rocks off William Head early Tuesday morning, but the 70-foot vessel escaped damage and the crew of eight escaped injury.

The seiner Laredo was refloated at noon and continued fishing.

The skipper Joseph Brusic walked ashore at low tide, phoned the owners, J. H. Todd, of Vancouver, then returned to his ship.

A tug, the Island Trooper, stood by while the fishboat was in difficulties.

Bike Bug Bites Students

Motorcycle bug has apparently bitten hard in ranks of Nanaimo teen-agers. Many well-cared-for machines are visible every day in motorcycle section of parking lot at Nanaimo Senior Secondary School.—(Agnes Flett)

Smoker Fire Victim

CAMPBELL RIVER—Smoking in bed is believed to have been the indirect cause of the death of Thomas Patrick King, 24, it was learned Tuesday.

He was found dead by firemen last Saturday morning in his smoke-filled auto court cabin.

Reports said Mr. King succeeded in breaking a window in the kitchen of his cabin before being overcome by the smoke from his burning bed.

Firemen found the body lying on the kitchen table.

Appeal Still Possible

Pacific Logging Loses Booming Ground Bid

Crofton Residents Voice Objections

NORTH COWICHAN — Pacific Logging Co. has lost out in its bid to develop a booming ground at Crofton, The Daily Colonist learned Tuesday, but an appeal is still possible.

North Cowichan municipal council held a public hearing on the matter Monday night and then, in a later closed meeting, decided not to recommend approval of the application.

The vote was reported as four to three against the application, where five yes votes were needed as a two-thirds majority is required.

The matter could come before council again at its weekly meeting today when minutes of the hearing must be read, but it was considered a reversal of the vote was unlikely.

However, Reeve Donald Morton said Tuesday night the company, a CPR subsidiary, could still go to the zoning appeal board.

Pointing out the provincial foreshore lease of the area concerned still has three years to go, the reeve said "the proper course for Pacific Logging would be to appeal to the zoning board of appeal for non-conforming use of the area."

If approved, this could allow use of the area for booming for the three years.

Complaint First Word

Some months ago, Pacific Logging started to establish the boom next to the Crofton government wharf without receiving council authorization.

Mrs. Jessie McMorran, operator of adjacent Twin Gables motel and fishing resort, complained that the noise of pile-drivers drove people from her establishment—a complaint that was council's first indication the work had started.

Pacific Logging later met council, which called the public hearing. Work resumed that same day through a misunderstanding but was soon called off.

About 50 people filled the council chamber for the hearing, which heard four briefs.

President Ed Alexander, speaking for the Crofton Ratepayers' Association, said the group is trying to attract residential people and does not want any more heavy industry on the waterfront.

He said the association asked council twice in recent years to oppose use of the area as a booming ground, and added the ratepayers now are paying for $100,000 sewerage and $30,000 firehall bylaws.

Many Sign Petition

Mr. Alexander said more than 100 people had signed a petition against the booming ground proposal, which is actually a rezoning of the upland area to industrial from commercial.

Lawyer Miss E. R. Harrison, speaking for the motel owners, noted there had been no booming in the area since 1957.

Crofton PTA president Robert Mellalieu said his group felt the presence of more heavy trucks on main streets would be a danger to children.

Pacific Logging president William Sloan said his firm regretted the adverse publicity on the matter and indicated the booming area would mean more business for the district "once Pacific Logging gets going."

It was learned Councillors Gerry Smith, Dennis Hogan and George Whittaker voted in favor of the rezoning. Reeve Morton and Councillors Mrs. Elaine Dobbyn, John Cannon and Reginald Clegg were opposed.

B.C. Gas Price 'Too High'

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. liquified natural gas is too costly for Japan, a leading Japanese industrialist said Tuesday. Noboru Inagaki, executive vice president of Mitsui and Company, said natural gas can be imported from Kuwait at one cent a cubic foot less than from B.C.

Duncan Completes Deal For Cricket Club Field

DUNCAN—The long and complicated negotiations to turn the Wharncliffe Road playing field into a city playground have ended with city council's third and final reading of the purchase bylaw.

The bylaw will allow the city to buy the 6.7-acre field from the Cowichan Cricket Club for $18,500.

A referendum authorizing the purchase was approved by taxpayers last December but the club a few months ago asked for more money for the property. Recent negotiations between the club and the city put the final price at $18,500.

SAMPLE REVISION

Council also learned at its meeting this week that the Union of B.C. Municipalities has suggested revisions to make city trade licencing bylaws as uniform as possible throughout B.C.

City clerk Gordon Berry reported a sample bylaw revision has been received and, while there will be no "drastic changes," the work should be finished by Jan. 15. He will report on the changes to the next council meeting.

HOSPITAL DEBENTURES

Mr. Berry also announced the finance committee will call tenders within a week for the sale of $188,000 worth of hospital debentures. Council recently authorized the sale and the debentures will bear interest of 5½ per cent.

Ald. W. B. B. Cocks, council representative on the Duncan planning commission, indicated he will attend a one-day community planning meeting in Nanaimo Oct. 24.

The meeting, sponsored by the Nanaimo advisory planning commission, will discuss such planning problems as health, recreation and community projects.

Flier-Foiling Foil Foiled

COMOX—A 26-year-old RCAF corporal who foiled the foil that was foiling the flier, has been rewarded for his feat.

Two years ago, Cpl. Win Bacon, then a radar technician at the RCAF base in St. Hubert, Que., became aware that CF-100 target aircraft used by an electronic warfare unit were returning from missions still carrying metallic foil.

★ ★ ★

This foil should have been jettisoned over designated target areas. Checking how the foil was foiling the flier, Cpl. Bacon noted the foil boxes were buffetted by the slipstream as they left the aircraft.

This caused the mechanical box counter outside the plane to send a false empty indication to equipment monitored by the pilot inside.

★ ★ ★

Cpl. Bacon suggested using an electronic counter composed of a photo-electric cell and light beam so that, no matter how the box vibrated, it would break the light beam only once.

The pilot would then know for sure the foil was gone, he reasoned, and his suggestion was adopted.

★ ★ ★

Now at Station Comox, Cpl. Bacon has been rewarded with a certificate and a cheque, presented on behalf of the suggestion award board of the public service of Canada. Comox skipper, Group Capt. E. G. Ireland, officiated.

Cpl. Bacon, from Amherst, N.S., joined the RCAF in Halifax in 1958 and came here last October. He and his wife, Marie, and their daughter, Christine, two, live at 575 Davis in Tyee Park at Comox.

Queen Smiles, Loves Funny, Risque Show

CHARLOTTETOWN (UPI)—A bejeweled and glamorous Queen Elizabeth Tuesday night was given a taste of Canada on stage in a Royal Variety Program that was sometimes funny, often risque and always Canadian.

The cream of Charlottetown society, in long dresses, black and white tie and bemedalled uniforms, gathered in the 1,200-seat theatre of the new $6,000,000 Fathers of Confederation complex to watch Canadian artists—and to see the Queen.

Outside, an estimated 3,000 people watched the Queen go in and waited for more than two hours for her to come out again, to catch a second glimpse of the flowing evening gown and jewels of the 38-year-old monarch whose warm smile and friendly wave has belied any concern she may have for her personal safety.

★ ★ ★

Security measures remained strict, however, with guards speckling the memorial area, and each of the 1,200 guests checked off against a master list as they arrived in the red-carpeted main foyer of the new theatre.

Backstage after the show, both the Queen and Prince Philip praised the actors.

"It's the first time I've seen you so dressed up," she said to master of ceremonies Lorne Greene. The Queen told him that she watched Bonanza "with the children every Sunday."

★ ★ ★

Queen Elizabeth told Anna Russell that she knew the song that had required the audience to go oink, oink during the show, "and I can make those noises at home, but I can't do it with the press around."

The Queen and Prince Philip, sitting in the balcony above the main theatre section, appeared to enjoy the performance that ranged from the stylistic impressionistic dancing of Les Feux-Follets of Montreal to the sharp jabs of comedian Dave Broadfoot of Vancouver.

Flag Mural

Philip Chuckles at 'Compromise'

Queen Smiles

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The royal visit got mixed up with the great Canadian Flag debate for one hilarious minute here Tuesday as the Queen and Prince Philip viewed Jack Shadbolt's controversial flag mural.

The incident occurred during a tour of the art gallery in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre.

The Queen and her husband, accompanied by Prime Minister Pearson, rounded a corner in a long corridor.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly they were confronted with the Vancouver artist's huge mural—a composite of hundreds of flag designs.

The Queen smiled and did not commit herself, but Prince Philip with characteristic informality, burst into a loud chuckle which reverberated up and down the hallway.

"That's compromise for you", he said with a broad grin towards the prime minister.

★ ★ ★

A chuckling Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island chimed in with "Yes, this may be the answer to all our problems."

Soon everybody in the official party was laughing.

The general hilarity was missed by a large group of photographers and newspaper men who were trailing the

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—If the 7,500 student body at Quebec City's French-speaking Laval University cannot demonstrate publicly against the Queen's arrival here, then the second best thing they can do is make fun of her.

A student will portray the Queen, while others will portray Prince Philip, the Fathers of Confederation and other dignitaries.

Nanaimo Murder Hearing

Gun-Bullet Link Sought

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO—Police witnesses paraded to the stand Tuesday in Nanaimo courthouse as the Crown attempted to link the bullets that killed Leslie Dixon and Diane Phipps to a rifle said to belong to Ronald Ingram.

The 35-year-old former Nanaimo resident's preliminary hearing on charges of capital murder in the 1962 slayings ended its second day before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts with 15 more witnesses for a total of 39.

★ ★ ★

The hearing may end today after four more witnesses testify.

One of the police witnesses collapsed Tuesday morning but returned in the afternoon. And a Monday witness, young Jordan River logger James Hoggan, said "Yes, sir" when asked if he had "deliberately perjured himself" on one aspect of the case.

Retired RCMP officer Don Colquhoun, who was stationed in Nanaimo at the time of the murders, testified he found two empty shell cases in the car in which young Dixon's body was found.

Cpl. S. J. Kirby, ballistics expert from the RCMP crime laboratory in Regina, said these cases had positively been fired in the .22 calibre rifle entered as evidence Monday.

Ingram's adopted daughter testified Monday that Ingram bought the rifle at a 1955 auction in Kamloops.

Cpl. Kirby testified two of the three bullets taken from the heads of the murder victims could have come and probably were from the same rifle. The third was so badly damaged it was impossible to say.

CLOSE RANGE

The ballistics expert also said the bullets which killed young Dixon were fired at a range of less than half an inch. Court was told earlier he was shot in the back of the head.

Const. Dan Creally of Nanaimo said he found two rounds of .22 ammunition in a search of Ingram's North Vancouver home Aug. 7 of this year.

BAKERY FIND

Const. D. F. Haggerty, who collapsed on the stand in the morning, was assisted from the court but recovered and returned in the afternoon to complete his testimony.

Prince's Criticism May Bring Exile

ATHENS (UPI) — The pro-government newspaper Eleftheria said Tuesday Prince Peter of Greece may be exiled because of his public criticism of Queen Mother Frederika.

Official government circles neither confirmed nor denied the report.

Peter has asked for an audience with King Constantine, now honeymooning on the Island of Spetsopoula with Queen Anne-Marie, and has promised not to make any more statements before a meeting.

The newspaper said he may be asked to leave the country before he has a chance to tell the king any details of his charges that Frederika caused dissension among the royal family.

The Greek nation waited anxiously for the next disclosures in the royal storm. The story was ignored by the government-controlled radio but made headlines in Monday afternoon's and Tuesday's newspapers.

Sources said Peter's Sunday press conference—which was denounced by the government as "improper toward the Queen Mother and harmful to the nation"—was the last step in a series of moves made to iron out family differences.

Against Japan

U.S. WAS READY TO RELEASE GAS

British Feared Nazi Retaliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was ready to use poison gas against the Japanese late in the Second World War, a report attributed to the late Gen. George C. Marshall declared Tuesday.

The report said the plan was dropped chiefly because of opposition from the British who feared it might touch off a German gas attack on England.

Marshall, wartime U.S. Army chief of staff, is so quoted by David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. Lilienthal says Marshall made the disclosure to him and several other atomic officials in June, 1947, when the general was secretary of state.

FORBIDDEN

Lilienthal said Marshall made "no mention of the fact that international law forbade its (poison gas) use."

The account appeared Monday in a new book, The Journals of David E. Lilienthal: The Atomic Energy Years 1945-1950 (Harper and Row).

PLANS SERIES

In the book—one of a contemplated series designed to cover 46 years of the public and private life of the oftentimes controversial government official — Lilienthal also reports that:

1. Even before the push to develop the hydrogen bomb was begun, the United States had firm prospects of developing enough A-bombs within two years that "we could blow a hole clean through the earth"—to quote words Lilienthal attributed to President Harry Truman after the AEC had

Bennett Hits Japan Trail

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett Tuesday announced he and some of his cabinet will make an industrial tour of Japan next year.

The premier, who has never visited Japan, made the announcement in accepting an invitation from Yoshihiro Inayama, leader of a 23-man economic mission which began a 25-day Canadian visit Monday.

Japan is British Columbia's second largest customer for export goods, behind the United States.

In accepting the invitation, Mr. Bennett said: "We are not in favor of trade restrictions and we want to find out how we can buy more goods from Japan."

Mr. Inayama, who heads the world's fourth largest steel industry, described Mr. Bennett as "one of the leaders in working for greater Japanese-Canadian trade."

He also supported a recent suggestion by Canadian External Affairs Minister Paul Martin for a North Pacific triangle between Canada, the U.S. and Japan. "These three nations have much in common."

Bennett to Laing: 'Keep Hands Out'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Message to Federal Resources Minister Laing from Premier Bennett: Keep your cotton-picking hands out of British Columbia's affairs.

At a press conference Tuesday, Mr. Bennett had been asked to comment on Mr. Laing's statement that provincial policy is hindering the exploration of offshore minerals.

"As long as I'm premier, companies will have to pay a fair amount for developing these resources which belong to all the people," Mr. Bennett said. "If he would keep his cotton-picking hands out of it (British Columbia) we would be very happy."

Police Charge 'Friendly' Mob

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)—A mob of 3,000 Peronist demonstrators closed around a car carrying President Charles de Gaulle of France and President Arturo Illia of Argentina Tuesday and broke up their motorcade.

Sixteen persons were wounded in the rock-and-gun battle that followed as police charged at the crowd.

The wives of the two presidents, together in another car, were in peril for a time.

AGAINST ILLIA

The 74-year-old de Gaulle, target of assassins on previous occasions in Europe, was untouched in the incident provoked by demonstrators apparently friendly to him but hostile to Illia.

Illia suffered a cut hand from broken glass of the presidential car. He said later that the incidents were the "consequence of twisted thinking."

Police, using tear gas bombs, drove an opening in the mob and the car sped on the short distance remaining to a farewell luncheon that closed de Gaulle's four-day visit to Argentina.

Tshombe Fails At Cairo

CAIRO (CP)—The Congo's Premier Moise Tshombe abandoned Tuesday night his attempt to crash the conference of non-aligned powers after being told he would not be accepted.

From a suburban palace where he had been kept under virtual house arrest through the day, Tshombe announced he would leave immediately for The Congo.

★ ★ ★

Tshombe also sent an angry letter to President Abdel Gamel Nasser complaining, "I am a prisoner of my host." He said he had been cut off from all communication with the outside world and even had difficulty getting in touch with The Congo embassy.

It was later announced that the United Arab Republic has refused to release Tshombe from house arrest so that he can go back to Leopoldville.

★ ★ ★

Tshombe was told last night that he would not be free to go home until the Egyptian and Algerian diplomats were permitted to leave The Congo and go to the neighboring former French Congo Republic.

Canada Provoked — Duties in Cyprus

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is becoming more and more annoyed that the Canadian contingent in the United Nations force in Cyprus is continuing to be handed most of the force's dirty jobs, informed sources said Tuesday.

But there is nothing official the government can do about it because the 1,130-man Canadian contingent is under UN command.

Moreover, any formal action in this regard might appear to the other contributing nations as political jockeying for a preferred position in the force, informants said.

One of the chief causes of the present problem, in Canadian eyes, is that Canadian troops have been so efficient in UN peacekeeping operations that they almost automatically draw the toughest assignments.

External Affairs Minister Martin has been dropping hints—hoping they will reach the ears of the UN command—that the various tasks of the UN force in Cyprus should be rotated among the six national contingents. The other major units come from Britain, Ireland, Denmark, Sweden and Finland.

Sources said the government believes the Canadians have had long enough the nerve-wracking job of policing the 16-mile highway from Nicosia to Kyrenia.

★ ★ ★

The situation along the highway threatens to flare up again. The 650-man Turkish army contingent in Cyprus, on the island by the 1960 independence treaty, straddles the road.

The government here is said to feel that a less onerous task for the Canadians, at least temporarily, would boost morale.
